GREATEST MARINE DISASTER IN STATES

SIXTEEN HUNDRED LIVES LOST WHEN STEAMER CAPSIZES

Eastland, Carrying Twenty-Five Hundred Excursionists, Turns Over as It Is About to Leave Dock in Chicago River This Morning—Passengers Helpless in Cabins and Companion-Ways—Fearful Scenes of Panic on Vessel

Chicago, July 24.—Hundreds of persons, probably over 1,600, were drowned to-day when the steamer Eastland, crowded with 2,500 employees of the Western Electric Company, capsized in the Chicago river. Four hours after the accident rescuers were still taking bodies from the boat through holes cut in its hull, and estimates of the death list up to 1,600. At 11 o'clock nearly 500 bodies had been found.

The crowding of passengers to one side of the boat is supposed to have caused the tragedy, but authorities, not satisfied with this explanation, ordered the arrest of officers of the boat and Captain Harry Pedersen and Dell Fisher, first mate, were taken to police headquarters.

Panic of the worst kind struck the passengers when the boat began to turn over. Best accounts of witnesses said the steamship rolled slightly twice, then turned further, and that hundreds of screaming, struggling men, women and children slid across the sloping decks, fought for room on the companion-ways and clutched at companions, deck chairs or any other object that came to hand.

Women and children by the hundreds were caught below decks and the scratched faces, torn clothing and bruised bodies of the dead bore mute evidence to the desperation with which they fought for life.

The whole tragedy occupied less than five minutes. Members of the crew shouted warnings as the steamship first tilted, and Captain Pedersen ordered lower deck ports opened and all passengers ashore. There was, however, no chance for such a measure to succeed.

Some seven thousand tickets had been distributed for the excursion and five steamers chartered by the company. The Eastland was the first to receive its quota, and when its chartered capacity was reached federal inspectors ordered that no more be taken aboard.

The boat was docked on the south side of the river, and when the hundreds hurrying to the boat were turned back from it they streamed across the Clark street bridge to the steamer Theodore Roosevelt, which was to take the second load.

Screams of the Eastland victims halted this rush and the bridge was jammed with people until police, fearful that the structure would collapse, ordered it cleared.

Every recourse of the city was loaned to the rescue work. Remembering the Iroquois theatre disaster, mercantile concerns in the vicinity hurried motor trucks to the scene laden with blankets to warm the living or cover the dead. Pulmotors by the score were sent to the dock, physicians, police, firemen, government lifesavers and nurses were summoned, and all hospitals and morgues notified to prepare for patients or corpses.

The steamer floated on its side into midstream and city fireboats, tugs, motorboats and other river craft swarmed about it. Firemen climbed on the hull, forced openings in the steel hull and through these searched the cabins for possible victims.

Shortly before 11 o'clock two divers descended into the water and began the work of taking the bodies from between the decks. These were attached to lines and hauled up at signals. Every other minute a body would be hauled up.

Emmett Prochall, one of the eight divers working in the wreckage of the sunken steamship, upon coming to the surface after being under water for an hour, stated that he knew there were at least fifty bodies remaining in the bow of the boat alone. During the latter part of his submersion Prochall brought to the surface the bodies of five young girls and three babies.

Deputy Coroner David Jones and Sheriff John E. Traiger, of Cook county, are directing the work of removing the bodies from the hull. They believe the list of dead will be much over 1,500.

STORIES TOLD BY SURVIVORS

L. D. Gadory, employed as a "candy butcher" on the steamship, was the first eyewitness to tell a detailed story of the accident.

"It was about 7.40 o'clock this morning, and the boat was lying at the dock near the Clark street bridge loading with passengers," said Gadory. "We were to leave in twenty minutes, and the upper deck and cabins were crowded. I was standing on the lower deck near the gangplank watching the people come aboard. Suddenly I noticed the boat list toward the centre of the river. It rolled slightly at first, and then seemed to stop. Then it started to roll again. I became alarmed, and shouted to the crowd to keep still. Apparently a majority of the passengers were on one side of the boat, and this had overweighted it and caused it to list. Suddenly the hawsers which held the boat to the dock snapped.

"At this time everybody was panic-stricken. Women screamed and men tried to quiet them. I attempted to reach an upper deck, but could not because of the crowd, and ran back to where the gangway had been. The boat then slowly drifted away from the dock, rolling as it slipped into midstream, and a moment later it had turned over on its side. I climbed over on the hull of the boat, and stayed there until I was taken off by lifesavers. Many of the passengers leaped into the water as the boat went over. The survivors worked in taking passengers out of the water and cutting holes in the cabins to remove the bodies."

CAPTAIN CANNOT GIVE EXPLANATION

Policeman Heisser, one of the first to go to the rescue, gave a vivid description of the accident.

"I saw scores of men and women, many of them holding children, plunge into the water. I jumped into a rowboat and pulled out to the drowning. I think I got about fifty ashore. The fireboat and tugs hurried to the scene and picked up more than a hundred people. We grabbed those nearest us first. Others I aided by dragging them from the water onto the docks."

Capt. Harry Pedersen, 57 years old, of Benton Harbor, Mich., who was in command of the boat, said: "I was on the bridge and was about ready to pull out when I noticed the boat begin to list. I shouted orders to open the inside doors nearest the dock and gave the people a chance to get out. The boat continued to roll and shortly afterward the hawsers broke and the steamship turned over on its side and was drifting toward the middle of the river. When she went over I jumped and held on the upper side. It all happened in two minutes. The cause is a mystery to me. I have sailed the lakes 25 years, and previous to that sailed on salt water 12 years, and this is the first serious accident I ever had. I do not know how it happened."

Chief Steward Albert Wyckoff said: "I was in the lunchroom on the main deck when I noticed the boat beginning to list. Dishes fell off the rack and a scene of wild excitement followed. I shouted for the people to save themselves. A moment later I jumped into the water and managed to save three women."

William Barrett, a deckhand, said: "I was on the main deck at the stern line, ready to cast it off when the boat started to list. I shouted warnings to the passengers around me and tried to let go the hawser. When the boat went over I climbed on the upper side and helped get a number of passengers into boats. It all happened in a few minutes."

PASSENGERS WERE PANIC-STRICKEN

Mrs. Emmett O'Donnell, of Berwic, Ill., said: "The steamer was getting ready to leave and was crowded with excursionists. The officers of the boat pushed the crowd back which was around the gangplank, in order to pull it in. I think this was what caused the boat to list to one side. It never stopped when it started to roll, and in a few moments it was out in the middle of the river on its side. I saw dozens of people drowned around me, but was unable to give assistance. By a great effort I was able to climb on the upper side of the boat and managed to hold on until I was taken off by rescuers."

Lisle Goyatte, Chicago, said: "My wife and I had just entered the boat and were in the crowd on the main deck near the gangway. Then I heard someone shout 'Get back' and we were pushed over to one side. A moment later the boat started to list. We were all panic-stricken, and could do nothing. I lifted my wife in my arms and crawled out of an opening on the upper side of the boat as it slowly went over."

Walter K. Greenebaum, manager of the Indiana Transportation Company, who was in charge of the excursion said: "We had chartered five steamers for the excursion, the Eastland, Petersky, Theodore Roosevelt, Racine and Maywood. The Eastland was the first to load, and the docks were crowded with passengers to be taken on the other boats. One United States steamboat inspector and two assistants watched the Eastland load. They stood at the gangplank and counted the passengers as they went aboard. The report shows there were 2,500 passengers on the Eastland, its full ca-

FIGHTING AMONG THE CARNIC ALPS

The above picture, drawn by an artist of the London Sphere, gives an excellent idea of the sort of country in which the Italian troops have to fight. The soldiers seen here, men of the Bersagieri, are trained mountaineers, and they carry, in addition to the ordinary equipment of the soldier, ropes, ice-axes and all the other impediments of the mountaineer. They are holding a rocky ledge above a valley in which Austrian troops are advancing, and the type of fighting they are called on to do is not equalled in any other part of the fronts. The conflict in the Carpathians and the Vosges, although it presents its own difficulties, has no real counterpart to this Alpine fighting.

GERMANY VIOLATES SWISS NEUTRALITY

Cuts Barrier on Frontier, Presumably to Outflank the French

Geneva, July 24.—A serious frontier incident occurred Wednesday night near Largin when Germans cut the barbed wire barrier erected by the Swiss troops on the frontier and the supposition is they intended to outflank the French by passing through Swiss territory.

For the third time yesterday German aviators violated Swiss neutrality near Bonfol. The Swiss infantry opened heavy fire on the German aeroplane, which disappeared northward.

FALL OF GORIZIA RUMOR IN GENEVA

In Any Case the Italians Are Close to the Fortress

Geneva, July 24.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Milan says: "Many persons arriving at Milan state that after severe fighting the Italian troops have taken Gorizia."

Rome, July 24.—Half a million Austro-Hungarian and Italian troops, massed on a front sixty miles long on the Isonzo river, are engaged in the most desperate battle of the Austro-Italian war.

Under the pressure of the Italian drive, and especially the violent artillery fire of the invaders, the Austrian lines are weakening, and at several points between Tolmino and Doberdo the Austrians have evacuated trenches and have been driven from heights of strategic importance.

Gorizia is the prize for which the Italians are fighting, but they are buying their successes with heavy loss of life. The Austrian losses likewise have been heavy. It is estimated that within the past ten days they have lost 10,000 in killed, wounded and captured on the Isonzo front. Archduke Eugene, commander-in-chief of the Austrian forces, is calling vainly for reinforcements, according to advices from the front, but all available Austro-Hungarian troops have been sent to help the Germans in their drive against Warsaw.

The Italians have the advantage in ammunition and big guns. Under the broiling sun the Italians charged up the slopes of the mountain, facing the murderous fire of the Austrian defenders with most noteworthy courage. Gaining the Austrian trenches, the Italians attacked the defenders with the bayonet, and hand-to-hand fighting followed.

The number of prisoners taken during the past four days by the Italians has been increased to more than 5,000. That the Austrians are short of food and ammunition was declared by these captives.

REPARATION AND APOLOGY DEMANDED

Italy Will Give Turkey One Week in Which to Comply

Rome, July 24.—The most important decision taken by the cabinet council was in connection with the attitude of Turkey, which the government has determined not to tolerate.

The Italian ambassador at Constantinople has been instructed to demand reparation for the arbitrary seizure of the Italian tugboat Mondello, which since June 20 has been used by the Turks as a troopship in the Sea of Marmora under the protection of the Italian flag.

The Italian ambassador will exact a formal apology from the Turkish government, and assurances that no Turkish officers have been sent to Tripoli. He will demand permission for the immediate departure of Italian citizens now in Turkish territory, whose repatriation hitherto has been prevented.

A reasonable time limit will be given Turkey to comply with these demands. It is reported that it will not exceed a week.

STRONGEST WORDS DIPLOMACY CAN USE

Westminster Gazette Praises Last Wilson Note for Its Firmness

London, July 24.—"These are the strongest words diplomacy could employ without actually breaking relations with the power to which they are addressed, and if we apply the usual standard of interpretation to them we must call this note at least a penultimatum," is the Westminster Gazette's estimate of America's new note to Germany.

"It leaves nothing to be desired in the firmness wherewith it reasserts the principles laid down in the previous notes."

RUSSIANS CHECK GERMAN ADVANCE

Outlook for Success of Czar's Troops Around Warsaw Better

ALL THEIR POSITIONS ARE TENACIOUSLY HELD

Mackenzen is Still Some Miles From His Objective Point

London, July 24.—Held by the chain of fortresses which ring a giant tongue, of which Warsaw is the tip, the Germans to-day are believed here to be suffering a serious check in their attemps to capture the Polish capital. Berlin reports little real success since the Slav defence stiffened on their inner lines and, so far as has been ascertained, the Slavs are conducting a series of battles of a defensive nature with the greatest resolution and with considerable success.

The giant struggle about Warsaw, the firm tone of the United States note to Germany, the Italian offensive at Gorizia and unofficial but persistent reports that the fall of the Dardanelles is near, divided attention in London to-day.

Trip-hammer blows by von Mackenzen against the Lublin-Chelm railway, between the Vistula and the Bug rivers, with violent Russian counter-attacks were, apparently, the storm centre of the Teuton assault on Warsaw to-day. Despite earlier reports that the Lublin line had been attained, it is certain that von Mackenzen is still some miles from his objective, the conflict now raging near Belzyce, twelve miles from the railroad.

At Ivangorod, the Russians are holding stiffly in the shadow of the fortress. These positions are the rocks on which the former Teuton attacks on Warsaw broke and it is expected by military observers here that they can be taken, if at all, only by a prodigous expenditure of German lives.

Northward of Warsaw, observers expect the Slavs to hold fast. A great struggle is raging along the Narew river and about Novo Georgievsk, where the Russians cling tenaciously to the bridgehead at Rozan and still hold Pultusk, which was reported to have been captured by von Hindenburg.

Interest was keen in London to-day over the American note to Germany. It is taken as certain that if Germany sinks another passenger ship and sacrifices American lives without warning, the United States will immediately break off relations with Berlin. It was felt that, with the submarine menace crippled, England will easily find a way to satisfy American demands for what President Wilson calls the freedom of the seas.

Claims made yesterday that the Italian armies have actually crossed the Isonzo river in their progress toward Trieste were not confirmed to-day.

The battle on the Doberdo plateau and about the Gorizia bridgehead was reported continuing with great ferocity. Rome claims the capture of 1,500 prisoners on the Carso front, but Vienna denies the claim, declaring that all Italian advances have been checked.

Rome reports, unofficially, information from the Dardanelles that both Turks and allies expect the capture of the Gallipoli Peninsula within two weeks. It is declared the Turks are deliberately wasting their ammunition in the hope of justifying an ultimate surrender in Berlin. There is no confirmation of the report here, but it has caused the greatest interest and opinion is general that important events on the Dardanelles are in sight.

Petrograd, July 24.—Great fresh forces of Russians to-day were attacking the Teutons in Galicia with the view of relieving that pressure of the Germanic allies on the northern end of the Warsaw battleline.

Terrific fighting is in progress between the Bug and Vistula rivers in Southern Poland, where the Russians are being pressed hard by the oncoming legions of the kaiser. The Germans have been able to gain some ground, but fierce counter attacks by the Russians have cost them heavily.

With the shortening of the Russian line, and the Slav withdrawal to points closer to their base of supplies the Russian resistance to-day had stiffened, especially south of Warsaw, where von Mackenzen was striking at Ivangorod.

The battle was officially reported to be still at its height, but the view indicated by the official statement was that the prospect for the Russian armies had improved.

ROBLIN AND OTHERS FACE CRIMINAL SUIT

Premier, Three Colleagues and Contractor Kelly to Be Proceeded Against

HUGH ARMSTRONG FORGES LINK AGAINST HOWDEN

Other Testimony Implicates Dr. Montague, Once in Federal Cabinet

Winnipeg, July 24.—Warrants for the arrest of five men accused in R. A. Bonnar's report on the royal commission investigation into the Parliament buildings graft, will be issued by the attorney-general's department on Monday, it is announced by the provincial government.

The men named in Bonnar's report, which was submitted to Attorney-General Hudson to-day, are the former premier and three of the former provincial ministers, George R. Caldwell, James H. Howden and Dr. W. H. Montague, and the contractor for the new Parliament buildings, Thomas Kelly.

The attorney-general states that warrants will be issued promptly and that he will conduct the prosecutions after the warrants have been issued and arrests made.

Unless the court of appeals, which sits on Tuesday, reverses Mr. Justice Prendergast's decision, holding that Kelly cannot enjoin the Mathers' royal commission from forcing him to testify, extradition proceedings will be instituted to compel Kelly to return to Winnipeg.

Hugh Armstrong, former provincial treasurer, forged the last link in the chain of circumstantial evidence around his former colleague, James H. Howden, at an extra session of the Mathers' commission yesterday, in such a convincing way that C. P. Wilson, senior counsel for the Liberals, publicly accused the ex-attorney-general of perjury.

Wilson took statements from the evidence of Armstrong, connected them with evidence given before the Perdue commission and evidence given before the Mathers' commission and declared the series proved that Howden raised $5,000 to be used for keeping William Salt out of Winnipeg and that Howden deliberately stated untruths, knowing them to be such, in the witness box under oath.

Henry Boddington, partner of the architect, Frank W. Simon, gave testimony further implicating Montague in an attempt to put hundreds of thousands of dollars into Kelly's pockets in an unlawful manner.

The outlook for the Manitoba Conservative party is blue, and their ranks miss many prominent men who hitherto have been eager workers. Two nominating conventions, Centre and South Winnipeg, failed last night to even suggest candidates and will await the arrival of Hon. Robert Rogers.

ALLIES DRIVE OFF TURKISH ATTACKS

Under Cover of Bombardment the Enemy Made Ineffectual Assaults

London, July 24.—Official announcement was made here to-day that the Turkish forces at the Dardanelles have made a new attack on the allies and have been repulsed. The text of the statement follows:

"Sir Ian Hamilton reports that in the southern section about 3 p.m. yesterday the Turks attacked the northern trenches on our left flank. Our front trenches in that neighborhood were shelled rather heavily.

"Under cover of the bombardment a small force of Turks dashed for our sap-heads. Two of our machine guns at once opened fire and the survivors retired, leaving about 40 dead Turks lying in front of our trenches. Probably more were out of sight, as our shrapnel was effective.

"The whole affair lasted 20 minutes."

NATIONALISTS LEAD IN MONTREAL RIOTS

With Socialists, Break Up a Recruiting Meeting in the Metropolis

Montreal, July 24.—Between 1,200 and 1,500 disorderlies, among them a great number of boys, shouting, "We won't have conscription!" succeeded by organized hooting, hissing and stone and egg throwing, in breaking up a recruiting meeting at Park Lafontaine last night, when more than 5,000 persons were gathered to hear Major Emile Ranger, recently returned from the front, appeal for recruits for the 60th Battalion, one of the newer units being organized under French-Canadian auspices.

Major Ranger was not allowed to speak, and when he tried to secure a few minutes' hearing he and several other officers from local battalions, with an escort from the 60th Battalion, became a target for stones, and finally all left the platform and the park, a path being forced through one side of the audience.

Park Lafontaine, which is in the heart of the French-Canadian section of the city, has been the scene of such disorders on three successive nights. Crowds of men and boys, plainly organized, have attempted to create disturbances whenever the speakers in behalf of the units being raised attempted to address them.

Socialists and Nationalists are said to have been in evidence and leading the uproar. The police charged the disturbers and ejected several, but with no result.

Afterwards the mob began a march through the streets toward the newspaper offices, threatening to "smash them up," but the police reserves arrived and dispersed them before they had gone many blocks.

LOST VALUED SWORDS.

London, July 24.—A pair of gold swords, presented to Joseph Garibaldi by admirers in England and the United States, were aboard the Italian cruiser Giuseppe Garibaldi when she was sunk by an Austrian torpedo, according to The Telegraph's Rome correspondent. The swords were highly prized by Garibaldi.

RUSSIAN TROOPS HOLD POSITIONS

Throw Back Repeated Efforts of the Enemy to Break Through

Petrograd, July 24.—The following official communication was made public by the war office:

"In the region west of Mitau there has been no significant fighting. The enemy occupied Janishky and attempted an advance southeast. East of Rossiany the enemy advanced on the Shoushala river.

"On the Narew on Thursday there were further stubborn attacks on the bridgehead at Rozan.

"On the left bank of the Vistula the enemy on Thursday assaulted the advance works of Ivangorod on the Wulka, Bulkhinska and Chivachoff front, having broken our wire defences on one sector. The enemy was afterwards repulsed by our counter-attacks with great losses.

"On the Vistula and the Bug fighting continues. In the direction of Lubin the Austrians are attacking roads leading to Belcyze. The centre of the enemy armies, composed of a German division, suffered heavy losses on the 21st during an attack on the front of Khimial-Piaski-Sukhodoyle-Olezski-Voislavitze-Grubschow.

"On the morning of the 22nd, to the left of Wlepz and in the direction of the village of Riecvetz, the enemy ceased his attack, as he achieved no results the previous evening. On the front Kaidan - Ostrowice - Voislavitze-Ukhane, large German forces succeeded in taking our entrenchments, and even commenced an advance to the north, but after a fierce battle in the forest on the night of the 22nd, they were thrown back everywhere, with very heavy losses. During our counter-attacks we took six guns and 500 prisoners.

"In the region of Grubechow the enemy succeeded on the 22nd in advancing to the north. At the village of Djary, on the Bug, our troops repulsed the enemy beyond the river. Near Sokal the enemy made a violent counter-attack. Having occupied some lines of trenches during the night of the 21st, our troops continued in the morning to press the enemy toward the outskirts of the town of Sokal.

"In the region of the village of Potoujitza (in the Sokal sector), the enemy, concentrating strong forces for a counter-attack, captured part of the village, but after a fight in the streets we recaptured it. Among the prisoners taken in this region were remnants of the 10th Austrian Jaeger Battalion, with its commander.

"Strong enemy reserves which advanced from the heights near the village of Zavichnia sustained enormous losses by our cannonade, and, being unable to cross the Bug valley, could not support the enemy troops attacked by us. The fighting continues.

"During the day of the 21st the enemy attacked and captured part of the village of Dobrodwor (south of Sokal), but was dislodged the same evening, leaving some prisoners in our hands.

"There is no change in other sectors of our front."

Vienna, July 24.—The following official communication was issued yesterday:

"The fighting in South Poland, in Volhynia and on the Upper Bug river continues. The enemy sent strong forces against the Bug from Kamionka, Strumilowa and Krystynopol to Sokla, where we have established some bridgehead positions on the east bank. The enemy advanced at some points to within 300 paces of our trenches, and at other points there was hand-to-hand fighting. The Russians were everywhere repulsed with heavy losses.

"Southeast of Sokal a battalion of field chasseurs captured three officers and 342 men.

"Northeast of Grubechow the German forces have made important progress between the Bystritza and Vistula rivers. Archduke Joseph Ferdinand's army has repulsed the enemy at Belzyce and across the Wronow river.

"West of the Vistula, from the mouth of the Pilica and up the river the allies have advanced to the Vistula to the girdle of Ivangorod.

"Near Kozienice (65 miles northwest of Sandomierz) our troops had an engagement with Russian rear guards.

"On the other parts of the front the situation is unchanged."

ECHO OF THE TWELFTH.

Calgary Pastor Accused of Using Seditious Language Towards Another Faith.

Calgary, July 24.—The Rev. Alexander Esler, minister of Grace Presbyterian church, was served with a summons last night to appear in the police court for using language calculated to cause strife between the loyal subjects of the king, and particularly between the Roman Catholic and Protestant communities.

The summons, taken out at the instance of Roman Catholics, charges that Mr. Esler used seditious language and accused Rome of being behind the war, in an Orange day address. The session of Grace church to-night decided to back up their pastor to the limit.

Saskatoon, Sask., July 24.—The latest reports from Dunburn and Hanley state that damage estimated at $25,000 was done to crops in that district by hail and wind on Thursday.

Regina, Sask., July 24.—Damage approximating $15,000 was done to the crops north of Belle Plain, thirty miles west of Regina, by a hail storm, which struck a strip of wheat fields about two miles wide and ten miles long.

PREMIER IN FRANCE

Sir Robert Borden Visits Camps and Hospitals at Army Bases.

Northern France, July 24.—Premier Borden had an enthusiastic welcome from the Dominion soldiers on the fighting line. With R. B. Bennett, M. P., and two Canadian staff officers, he has spent a busy time in France since landing at Boulogne from the British destroyer which was placed at his disposal by the admiralty.

The governor of Boulogne, Col. Dary, and his suite greeted the Canadian party at the dock, and in a stirring speech told the premier how proud France was to have the representatives of the Dominion's brave troops as her guest.

During the afternoon the premier motored to Le Touquet, Etaples and Wimerus, where he inspected the Canadian hospital and talked with a few wounded soldiers from overseas who remained from the last severe fighting at Festubert.

In the evening there was a banquet, which was attended by all the principal military officers of this section of the British lines of communication, and also French officers from Calais.

Early on Wednesday the premier's party were taken in British official cars to where General Alderson had his headquarters. The premier then made a tour of the military works, visiting officers' dugouts, and even venturing into the series of advanced trenches.

REBELS GO TO PRISON

Boers Who Fought Against South African Confederation Punished.

London, July 24.—Lieut.-Col. Kemp, leader of a body of Boer rebels in South Africa, who with his troops surrendered to the British forces early in the spring, has been sentenced to seven years in prison and to pay a fine of $5,000, according to the Pretoria correspondent of Reuter's agency.

The correspondent states that Colonel Kemp's defence at his trial was that he rebelled not in order to co-operate with Germany, but to make a demonstration against the colony fighting Germany, but to make a demonstration against the colony fighting Germany. He declared he wanted to maintain neutrality.

Justice Lange, in passing sentence, emphasized the difference between the cases of General Christian De Wet and Colonel Kemp. The latter held His Majesty's commission until shortly before he rebelled, and after that actually co-operated with Lieut.-Colonel Maritz and the enemy, whereas General De Wet repudiated Maritz when he found that Maritz was co-operating with the Germans.

Colonel Bezuidenhout and Colonel Kock were sentenced to five and four years, respectively, for high treason.

CANNING PLANT SOLD.

Bellingham, July 24.—The Coast Canning company's plant, erected this spring on Lummi island at a cost of $75,000 by Seattle men, has been sold to C. F. Whiting, J. B. Combs and Mar Dong, of Portland. The management of the plant will be from Portland offices. The plant's capacity is approximately 65,000 cases of salmon for the season. The former owners were T. R. Kershaw, W. E. Fry and Robt. B. McClary, of Seattle.

EMBARGO ON STOCK

Ottawa Removes Prohibition on Imports From Recently Infected States.

Ottawa, July 24.—The embargo placed by the Canadian government upon the importation of livestock and their products, and also upon hay, straw, etc., coming from the United States, and which has been in force since October last, will expire on August 2, in the case of the following states: Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Montana, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas.

The embargo was imposed by the government at the outbreak of the foot and mouth disease in Michigan last October.

COMPULSORY TRAINING

Students in University of B. C. Must Take Course During Two Years.

Vancouver, B. C., July 24.—Realizing the need of imparting proper military training to the young men of British Columbia, the board of governors of the Provincial University has passed a resolution making service in the military unit attached to the institution compulsory for at least two years of the university course.

It is understood that this unit will be in the form of an officer's training corps, which will grant lieutenants' certificates at the successful completion of the two years' course.

BELGIANS' DEFIANT LOYALTY.

Rotterdam, July 24.—On the occasion of the Belgians' feast day crowds of the inhabitants dressed in their best clothes and paraded the streets of Antwerp. Some daring patriots went to the king's palace and placed flowers on the pavement immediately in front of the building. The cry of "Long live the king!" leaped up, and a moment later the Germans removed the flowers and cleared the streets.

FRENCH OFFICIAL

Comparatively Quiet Day Was Spent Along the Whole Front.

Paris, July 24.—The following official statement was issued by the French war office last night:

"To-day it was comparatively quiet along the whole front.

"In Artois there was the usual artillery activity on both sides.

"Some shells were fired on the suburbs of Soissons and on Rheims.

"In the forest of Le Pretre in the course of last night we regained a footing in the line of trenches previously lost. Two German counter-attacks were repulsed with considerable losses to the enemy.

"One of our flying squadrons employed on bombardment duty yesterday evening dropped 28 shells on the railway station at Conflans, in Jarnisy, and forced two German aeroplanes to alight in their own lines."

FIGHT IN THE AIR AT A DIZZY SPEED

French Aviators Account for Enemy Machine With a Carbine

Paris, July 24.—A young officer gives a thrilling account of a battle in the air between a French-Liore and a German Aviatik, at a speed of 125 miles an hour:

5.30 a. m.—The altimeter marks 1,800 metres. Thick mist, which at 2,000 metres suddenly ceases. Marvellous scene as we pass over the town, with the tragic mass of its mutilated cathedral. . . . Shall we have the luck to meet an Aviatik? I descry far away and above us a moving speck. Is it French or German? I cannot discuss the matter with the pilot, for we have to yell in order to make each other hear. I shout "Let's go and see."

P— nods, and off we start after the little black speck. We are within our lines, so if we bring the bird down we can go and fetch it.

6.10 a. m.—A German! No doubt about it. I have seen. Biplane. Leaning over P—'s shoulder, I yell, "Aviatik." . . . What is the distance between us? A hundred to 150 yards, possibly, but I really cannot say. I feel my heart bumping against my chest. I am full of confidence, sure of the result. I take aim slowly, determined only to fire at the very last moment, so as not to miss. The enemy is on our right, on a slightly lower plane. The wind from the propeller is so strong that I have difficulty in keeping my carbine steady. . . .

The German machine—an Albatross with a triangular tail—seems to be approaching at a dizzy rate. Shall we collide? With a jerk, P— brings up his Morane, and the Albatross shoots by just underneath. It is now on our left, about 40 yards away. Quick! I load again. P— makes such a sharp turn that the wires sing. Again the two aeroplanes rush at each other at a frightful pace. I can distinguish the German pilot's head. Then a jolt, and I lose it. Ah! there it is again. I have fired. . . . .

The two machines are going full speed. As they cross the two speeds increase and we meet at over 125 miles an hour. Then for the first time we catch sight of the look-out. Thanks to P—'s clever steering, the German look-out has been kept the whole time in the dead angle hidden by the upper plane. I feel he is going to shoot. . . . The crack of the famous mitrailleuse.

Well played! With another masterly turn P— rears up his machine and describes a quarter-turn. The upper plane of the Albatross comes in again like a screen between us.

I fire again just as the Albatross passes over us, hardly three yards away. A flash! Quickly I lean to the left. Crack! The Albatross is again on us. I have hardly time to see. Quickly P— raises his arm and yells something, and I cannot withhold a cry of triumph. The enemy is pitching head foremost and leaning heavily on the right wing. The propeller has almost stopped running.

The bird fell within the French lines, and the two Germans on it threw up their hands and surrendered.

ATTACKING U. S. NAVY

Another Vessel the Object of Wilful Mischief in Builders' Yards.

Philadelphia, July 24.—The U. S. torpedo boat destroyer Ericson was almost sunk at her slip in the yards of the New York Shipbuilding company, by the opening of a seacock which flooded two compartments of the vessel on Tuesday night, following the mysterious fire aboard the battleship Oklahoma, anchored on the other side of the same slip.

According to a report from unofficial sources here, the Ericson was sunk until her decks were within a few feet of the water when workmen arrived at the yards on Wednesday morning. The most powerful pumps obtainable had to be used before the vessel could be pumped clear of water. Officials at the yard would not discuss the accident, but it was admitted there that the vessel was flooded.

The Ericson, which recently successfully completed her official trip, was said to have been undamaged by the flooding.

PROTECTING NAVY YARD

Stringent Regulations Are Put Into Effect at Bremerton.

Bremerton, July 24.—Commencing July 19, the new orders regarding visitors to the navy yard and ships went into effect, much to the consternation of civilians who attempted to pass the sentry at the main gates.

The orders require every civilian to register his name, nationality and address at the gate, together with his place of birth. The orders are imperative and are direct from the navy department. Stringent orders have been issued to all vessels to allow no one below decks, in the engine room compartments or ammunition passages. This order arises out of the fires on vessels in Atlantic yards, believed to have been incendiary.

States Tells Germany Further Attack Will Be Deliberately Unfriendly

Washington, July 24.—The text of the American note on submarine warfare, presented at Berlin earlier in the day by Ambassador Gerard, was made public here last night.

The United States announces that it continues to contend for the freedom of the seas, "from whatever quarter violated, without compromise and at any cost."

The following is the official text:

Department of State, Washington, July 21, 1915.

The Secretary of State to Ambassador Gerard:

You are instructed to deliver textually the following note to the minister of foreign affairs:

The note of the imperial German government, dated the 8th of July, 1915, has received the careful consideration of the government of the United States, and it regrets to be obliged to say that it has found it very unsatisfactory because it fails to meet the real differences between the two governments and indicates no way in which the accepted principles of law and humanity may be applied in the grave matter in controversy, but proposed, on the contrary, arrangements for a partial suspension of those principles which would virtually set them aside.

The government of the United States' note with satisfaction that the imperial government recognized without reservation the validity of the principles insisted on in several communications which this government has addressed to the imperial German government, with regard to its announcement of a war zone and the use of submarines against merchantmen on the high seas—the principle that the high seas are free, that the character and cargo of a merchantman must first be ascertained before she can lawfully be seized or destroyed, and that the lives of non-combatants may in no case be put in jeopardy unless the vessel resists or seeks to escape after being summoned to submit to examination; for a belligerent act of retaliation is purely an act beyond the law, and the defence of an act as retaliatory is an admission that it is illegal.

The government of the United States is, however, keenly disappointed to find that the imperial German government regards itself as in large degree exempt from the obligation to observe these principles, even where neutral vessels are concerned by what it believes the policy and practice of the government of Britain to be in the present war with regard to neutral commerce.

The imperial German government will readily understand that the government of the United States cannot discuss the policy of the government of Great Britain with regard to neutral trade except with that government itself, and that it must regard the conduct of other belligerent governments as irrelevant to any discussion with the imperial German government of what this government regards as grave and unjustifiable violation of the rights of American citizens by German naval commanders.

Illegal and inhuman acts, however justifiable they may be thought to be against an enemy who is believed to have acted in contravention of law and humanity, are manifestly indefensible when they deprive neutrals of their acknowledged rights particularly when they violate the right to live itself.

If a belligerent cannot retaliate against an enemy without injuring the lives of neutrals, as well as their property, humanity, as well as justice and a due regard for the dignity of neutral powers, should dictate that the practice be discontinued. It persisted in, it, in such circumstances, constitutes an unpardonable offence against the sovereignty of the neutral nation affected.

The government of the United States is not unmindful of the extraordinary conditions created by this war, or of the radical alterations of circumstances and methods of attack produced by the use of the instrumentalities of naval warfare which the nations of the world cannot have had in view when the existing rules of international law were formulated, and it is ready to make every reasonable allowance for these novel and unexpected aspects of war at sea; but it cannot consent to abate any essential or fundamental right of its people because of a mere alteration of circumstances.

The rights of neutrals in time of war are based upon principle, not upon expediency, and the principles are immutable. It is the duty and obligation of belligerents to find a way to adapt the new circumstances to them.

The events of the past two months have clearly indicated that it is possible and practicable to conduct such submarine operations as have characterized the activity of the imperial Germany navy within the so-called war zone in substantial accord with the accepted practices of regulated warfare. The whole world has looked with interest and increasing satisfaction at the demonstration of that possibility by German naval commanders. It is manifestly possible, therefore, to lift the whole practice of submarine attack above the criticism which it has aroused, and remove the chief causes of offence.

In view of the admission of illegality made by the imperial German government when it pleaded the right of retaliation in defence of its acts, and in view of the manifest possibility of conforming to the established rules of naval warfare, the government of the United States cannot believe that the imperial German government will longer refrain from disavowing the wanton act of its naval commander in sinking the Lusitania, or from offering reparation for the American lives lost, so far as reparation can be made for a needless destruction of human life by an illegal act.

The government of the United States, while not indifferent to the friendly spirit in which it is made, cannot accept the suggestion of the imperial German government that certain vessels be designated and agreed upon which shall be free on the seas now illegally proscribed. The very agreement would, by implication, subject other vessels to illegal attack, and would be a curtailment and therefore an abandonment of the principles for which this government contends, and which in times of calmer counsels every nation would concede as of course.

"Deliberately Unfriendly."

The government of the United States and the imperial German government, contending for the same great object, have long stood together in urging the very principles upon which the government of the United States solemnly insists. They are contending for the freedom of the seas. The government of the United States will continue to contend for that freedom, from whatever quarter violated, without compromise and at any cost. It invites the practical co-operation of the imperial German government at this time, when co-operation may accomplish most, and this great common object be most strikingly and effectively achieved.

The imperial German government expresses the hope that this object may be in some measure accomplished even before the present war ends. It can be. The government of the United States not only feels obliged to insist upon it, by whomsoever violated or ignored, and for the protection of its own citizens, but is also deeply interested in seeing it made practicable between the belligerents themselves, and holds itself ready at any time to act as the common friend who may be privileged to suggest a way.

In the meantime, the very value which this government sets upon the long and unbroken friendship between the people and government of the United States and the people and the government of the German nation impels it to impress very solemnly upon the imperial German government the necessity for a scrupulous observance of neutral rights in this critical matter. Friendship itself prompts it to say to the imperial German government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the government of the United States when they affect American citizens as deliberately unfriendly.

WAR ORDERS.

In an article in the Saturday Evening Post on the enormous value of war orders placed in the United States the writer says that, roughly, the entente allies are buying in that country everything an army can use. When the orders were first given the existing plants could not begin to supply the demand. But secure in the prospect of plenty of business war-supply magnates installed the necessary machinery and hundreds of new establishments were erected. The article points out that "these plants have been extending themselves like mushrooms grown up in a night. Some of those companies have enlarged their plants three times in three months." The writer adds: "I know a factory that added a thousand men a week to its pay-roll throughout the entire spring, and another that has been offered a war order of almost one hundred million dollars if it can fulfil the specifications; and yet each and all of them fight shy of acknowledging any war orders."

There is a moral in this article for British Columbia manufacturers. They should not allow themselves to be put off with the reminder that they have not the necessary plant for the execution of war contracts. Given the same opportunities as were afforded American and eastern Canadian manufacturers they can get the plant. There is not the slightest doubt that machine guns could be constructed in Vancouver and Victoria, as well as numerous other parts of war implements, the contracts for which have been grabbed wholesale in the east.

WASHINGTON'S WARNING.

The complete text of the Washington note which now is receiving the consideration of Berlin is in stronger terms than advance press notices led us to expect it would be. It gives short shrift to the impudent proposals embodied in the last German communication, restates the conditions under which submarines may proceed lawfully against merchantmen, whether neutral or belligerent, and emphasizes an irrefutable case for the rights of neutrals in the following words:

"Illegal and inhuman acts, however justifiable they may be thought to be against an enemy who is believed to have acted in contravention of law and humanity, are manifestly indefensible when they deprive neutrals of their acknowledged rights, particularly when they violate the right to live itself. If a belligerent cannot retaliate against an enemy without injuring the lives of neutrals, as well as their property, humanity, as well as justice and a due regard for the dignity of neutral powers, should dictate that the practice be discontinued. If persisted in, it, in such circumstances, constitutes an unpardonable offence against the sovereignty of the neutral nation affected."

The note renews the demand for a disavowal by the German government of the wanton act of the submarine commander who sank the Lusitania and for reparation for the American lives lost, "so far as reparation can be made for a needless destruction of human life by an illegal act." The final paragraph will repay study. It is in these words:

"In the meantime, the very value which this government sets upon the long and unbroken friendship between the people and government of the United States and the people and the government of the German nation impels it to impress very solemnly upon the Imperial German government the necessity for a scrupulous observance of neutral rights in this critical matter. Friendship itself prompts it to say to the Imperial German government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the government of the United States when they affect American citizens as deliberately unfriendly."

Count von Bernstroff is reported yesterday to have stated that he thought the note afforded an opportunity for a friendly outcome to the negotiations. The closing paragraph leaves but one opening for the preservation of friendly relations between the United States and Germany, and that is the abandonment of unlawful war upon peaceful merchantmen by German submarines. Any repetition of acts in contravention of the rights of neutrals will be regarded by the government of the United States, "when they affect American citizens, as deliberately unfriendly."

If we examine the terms of the closing paragraph we will see that a "deliberately unfriendly" act does not necessarily mean an act through which American life is lost. An unsuccessful attempt to torpedo without warning a passenger ship or other merchantmen with Americans aboard, as in the incident of the Orduna, would be covered by the term "deliberately unfriendly." The note nails Germany squarely to the "immutable principles" of the law. Before destroying an unarmed, unresisting merchantman, suspected of carrying contraband, her submarine commanders must visit and search it to confirm their suspicions, and in all cases must first remove passengers to a place of safety. The note, while dignified throughout, is sternly admonitory and its effect upon the German mind will be watched with profound interest. One possible outcome is the widening of the breach between the apostles of ruthless piracy like Von Tirpitz and the pan-Germanists and the growing element headed by Von Bethmann Holwegg and Von Jagow, who favor a policy of conciliation.

THE EASTLAND DISASTER.

The victims of the appalling disaster in Chicago river where the excursion steamer Eastland capsized are variously estimated from seven hundred to fifteen hundred. The very nature of the catastrophe shows clearly where the responsibility lies. The Eastland was a vessel of approximately the same tonnage as the Princess Mary of the C. P. R. coasting fleet, but upon her decks were twenty-five hundred people, who must have been jammed into every available inch of space.

This was courting destruction, and there is nothing astonishing in the fact that death promptly took up the gauntlet. It is impossible to punish adequately those who permitted that vessel to be so fearfully overcrowded that she capsized when the panic started. Nor can extenuation be urged on the ground that the people themselves contributed to the deplorable result. People always will overcrowd steamers and other agencies of transportation to their own danger, and it is to protect them from their own recklessness that laws are made. If there are no regulations on the American Great Lake side governing the passenger accommodation of such flimsy floating structures as the Eastland the authorities are equally guilty with the operators of the vessel for the dreadful affair.

WILL GERMANY SUBMIT?

The Illinois Staats Zeitung, the principal German newspaper in Chicago, says Germany never will submit to the tone of the latest American note and that the only thing for the Berlin government to do is to sever diplomatic relations with the United States.

Germany is not likely to sever diplomatic relations with the United States, but whether she will take such action as will compel the United States to adopt that course will depend upon the military situation. If the attempt upon Warsaw fails the prestige of the apostles of ruthlessness will have suffered considerably while the influence of the advocates of conciliation, comprising principally the heads of the diplomatic service, will be increased.

Aside from the incident of the Orduna, it is not unlikely that the sudden cessation of German submarine activity is due largely to the strained relations between the two countries. Successful though the British admiralty may be in their efforts to devise some effective means of checking the operations of the pirates, it is scarcely probable that with thousands of British merchantmen on the seas surrounding the United Kingdom they would escape some losses.

The severing of diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany would be fraught with a much greater dislocation of the Kaiser's plans than would have been the case some months ago. By prohibiting the export of numerous commodities which now find their way into Germany through neutral countries, Washington could deal a heavy blow at the Teutonic cause. This is especially true in regard to cotton and copper, in both of which Germany and Austria are likely to experience a serious shortage before long. So vitally necessary is cotton for military use that, according to Sir William Ramsay, had Great Britain placed it on the list of contraband at the beginning of the war Teutonic resistance would have been overcome long ago.

Of course it is impossible to predict what a nation, which up to the present has been dominated by a band of potential lunatics, is likely to do in regard to the American note, but indications point to an attempt to prolong the negotiations while in the meantime a desperate effort is made to obtain a decision in the Warsaw struggle. If the Germans were successful in capturing the Vistula line they probably would endeavor to make peace on the basis of a drawn war, using Poland, Northeastern France and Belgium, with the exception of Antwerp, with which to bargain for the restoration of their colonies. Failing this, the war party would adopt further desperate devices to ward off the doom that it would see approaching, efforts that would result in conflict with the United States, and probably the violation of the neutrality of Holland and Switzerland. If the Prussian crowd realizes that it has to go down it will try to do as much damage as it can before the crash comes. It also will endeavor to enlarge the scope of the conflict in the hope that differences may arise between its multitude of enemies.

A GIGANTIC CROP.

The spring and winter wheat crop of North America for 1915, as estimated at present, will exceed the production of last season by more than 160,000,000 bushels. The total crop is expected to be 1,203,000,000 bushels against 1,040,000,000 bushels in 1914. The United States crop is estimated at 963,000,000 bushels, a gain of 73,000,000 bushels over the crop of last year, while that of Canada is placed at 240,000,000 bushels, an increase of 90,000,000 over the production of 1914.

The great bulk of the export surplus of this gigantic crop will go to the western belligerents, thanks to the supremacy of British sea power. The governments of Britain, France and Italy may be depended upon to take every possible measure for the movement of the precious cargo across the sea with a minimum of risk, but it will be a heavy drain upon the shipping resources of the three countries, great as they are, owing to the tremendous pressure upon their tonnage occasioned by the ordinary demands of war.

A state of war does not yet exist between the United States and Germany. But the faithful German-Americans have taken the bull by the horns nevertheless. They are proceeding upon the "principles" that carried the armies of the Kaiser into Belgium before war actually was declared against France. It is said there are five hundred German spies in Washington and that this considerable company holds daily communication with von Bernstorff, the German ambassador. The American navy has been attacked repeatedly by what only can be assumed to be sympathizers with the Germanic cause. Fires have broken out mysteriously on a number of American warships. Only last night a destroyer was very nearly sunk in the Brooklyn navy yard. Guards have been mounted in all plants, naval and military. But for "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain" the Kaiser's emissaries are more peculiar than the "heathen Chinee." They seem to be adepts in the art of constructing and planting bombs, and they care as little for the effects as their comrades who sink ships bearing non-combatants and neutrals. Destruction regardless of consequences is the end and aim and joy of the latter-day Germans. Their nation has sunk to the level of their proper ally, the Turk. The hand of every nation is against them. Like the beast of the jungle, they are going to their doom snarling and snapping.

It is unofficially reported that Italy has forced the Isonzo river line. Rome does not go that far but claims important progress at various points. If the Austrian front in that region falls the dual monarchy will be in a bad way, facing the early loss of Trieste and Pola and the destruction of her fleet, besides being exposed to an Italian movement towards Vienna. Austria's only recourse seems to be to withdraw her forces now battling against the Russians on the Galician and Bessarabian borders, but in that case the entire Teutonic offensive on the east front would be dangerously weakened if not destroyed.

Reeve McAdam of Esquimalt, whose death is announced, was a public-spirited and highly-respected citizen. Since entering the public life of the neighboring municipality he had acquired in a large degree the confidence of the community. Had he been spared higher honors probably were in store for him. Mr. McAdam was well-known and highly esteemed in Victoria as well as in Esquimalt, and expressions of sympathy for his widow in her affliction will not be confined exclusively to the community he so faithfully and conscientiously served.

Following closely upon the publication of the text of the Washington note to Germany, President Wilson's action in promptly convening a committee on national defence was more than ordinarily significant. He clearly means to translate his warning into action if Germany does not abandon her campaign of frightfulness at sea.

+ + +

Reports from Italy predict that the conquest of Gallipoli Peninsula by the allies will be complete in a fortnight owing to the exhaustion of Turkey's war supplies. This would mean the early passage of the Dardanelles by the allied fleet and the early fall of Constantinople. But before that happens some new faces will appear in the allied circle. Bulgaria and Greece will be in at Turkey's finish. Italy is taking steps preliminary to an open break with the Sublime Porte.

+ + +

Warsaw is still strongly held by Russia and no real progress is claimed by Germany or Austria on any of the three fronts. Between the Vistula and the Bug Russia is striking back with great fierceness, while in Galicia the Slavs are pressing hard upon the Austrians.

LEST WE FORGET.

Toronto Telegram.

War is a terrible business, of which everybody is weary. But Britishers have more reason to be thankful for their escape from the miseries of the short war that Germany planned than they have to mourn the agonies of a prolonged but victorious conflict.

THE OLD SPIRIT LIVES.

New York Evening Sun.

The heroism of Captain Parslow, of the Anglo-Californian, killed at the wheel in bringing his ship safely away from a submarine, and his son who stepped into his place and finished the job, shows that the same spirit is alive in Britain to-day as when her bulwarks were of oak. Had the merchantman been armed there is hardly room for doubt that there would have been one undersea raider less.

MISCHIEF-MAKERS.

New York World.

So long as we remain free and independent, the industry and commerce of the United States in war or in peace are not to be regulated or suppressed by manufactured alien sentiment at home or aggressive self-interest abroad. Those in America who have undertaken this task, falsely claiming to be neutrals and advocates of peace, are in truth mischief-makers, and we believe that most of them intend to be mischief-makers. For the production of cranks such people must bear a continuing responsibility.

DISPROVES GERMAN CLAIM.

Philadelphia Record.

On Sunday German newspapers commented on the fact that it was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the cession of Heligoland to Germany. Even if they are correct in saying that "Great Britain, at the time of the transfer, absolutely underrated the strategical and military value of the island," the transfer is rather difficult to reconcile with the accusation that England has for a long period been actuated by bitter hostility to Germany, and a settled purpose to prevent her expansion and to thwart her maritime ambitions. Even if the island were not valuable to England, there could not be any doubt that its position made it very valuable to Germany. If England had possessed Block Island for the greater part of a century, and its national policy was one of constant hostility to the United States, one could hardly imagine her trading it off to us in consideration of a bit of East Africa or Patagonia.

ALLOTTING SPACE

Commissioner Cuthbert Will Move Into New Offices Next Week.

The accommodation for manufacturers in the new offices of the Victoria and Island Development association, which are to be occupied next week in the Pemberton block, is almost all taken up. Only three spaces are now available. Allotment of the space was made this morning by ballot.

Very considerable support has been given to the proposal for a permanent exhibit, and for the information of visitors, who can only see a portion of the articles fabricated, the commissioner will have a sign painted, calling attention to the fact that there are many other industries in Victoria which are not represented in the display.

The intention is to give the manufacturers who have come into the scheme the window space for a week at a time, so that the products of their factory may be displayed in turn.

Provision is made for a private office, and for the stenographers' office, for the Island Automobile association's quarters, a ladies' rest room, and for the various exhibits. The Vancouver Island Power company is sending an exhibit of power supplies, one of the most important factors in locating an industry in this community.

KILLED BY SHELL.

Letter Tells How Sergt. V. Stevens Met His Death; Lce.-Corpl. Dee Progressing Favorably.

Particulars have been received in a letter from Private Tom Tilley, of Victoria, of the manner in which the late Sergt. V. Stevens came to his death at the battlefront.

From the account it appears that Sergt. Stevens had been slightly wounded, and two stretcher-bearers had come to carry him back to the field hospital. On their way they were crossing a field, when a "coal-box" shell burst right in the midst of the party, killing them all instantly.

Lance-Corporal John Dee, who is now in the First General hospital, Edgbaston, Birmingham, Eng., is making good progress, but will be permanently lame.

Death Was Accidental.—A coroner's jury yesterday afternoon returned a verdict of accidental death after hearing evidence at the inquest to inquire into the cause of death of W. P. Robinson. The injury that eventually resulted in death occurred when W. H. Mayhew, of Oak Bay esplanade, accidentally discharged a firearm, the shot from which struck Mr. Robinson in the groin. While lying in hospital the injured man made a statement to the effect that the wound he had received was the result of an accident, and this was the main evidence that went to the jury yesterday.

SUBMARINE INQUIRY

Sir Charles Davidson Coming to Victoria in August to Hear Evidence on Purchase.

The inquiry into the purchase of two submarines last year by Sir Richard McBride on behalf of the Dominion government will be held here some time in August. Sir Charles Davidson has been appointed special commissioner by the Dominion government to conduct the investigation, and will arrive here next month for that purpose.

Sir Richard McBride yesterday received a telegram from Sir Charles announcing his coming, but the actual date of the sitting of the commissioner was not given.

The submarines cost $1,150,000 and were bought from a Seattle firm, which had constructed them for the Chilean government, shortly after the outbreak of war.

Leaving for Holiday.—To-morrow will be Mr. Inkster's last Sunday in the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church before leaving for Beacher Bay to join his family for the summer vacation. Mr. Inkster's subject in the morning will be "Abiding in Christ," and in the evening "Peter the Penitent; A Sermon for Backsliders." For the succeeding four Sundays of Mr. Inkster's absence from the city, the pulpit will be supplied by Principal McKay, who will preach for the first two Sabbaths, then Professor Pidgeon, and on the fourth Sunday by Rev. Robert Martin, minister of one of the largest churches in western Ontario.

MILADY WEARS FURS IN THE HOT WEATHER

Strange Fancies in the Summer Fashions; Oddity the Lure

New York, July 17.

Transparent hats and furs, velvet head-gear and low necks—these are some of the things in the summer fashions that men question, and even a few women come up to and shy at, as the thermometer soars skyward. The little maiden with her "'rikisha" hat goes serenely on; the girl with the white fox furs hugs them more closely, and the wearer of the velvet hat sedately raises a parasol. Such matters are beyond the comprehension of mere man or the woman who was brought up to view clothes for comfort.

A Sports Hat of Blue Taffeta, the Woven "'Rikisha" and Silk Sailor; the "Chin-Chin," the Jabot and the Puritan Collar.

Their very oddity is the lure that makes them popular. What matters a coat of tan if the hat is woven with holes to duplicate the head-dress of the man that pulls the jinrikisha in Japan?

Even the woman who is conservative with her dress and suit, casts wisdom to the winds above the shoulder-line. What lies above bespeaks the true woman who, in her heart of hearts, loves the fantasies of fashion. The demure Quaker and saucy "Chin-Chin" collars, the flappy hat and stiff-brimmed sailor, even the plug hat of silk beaver fringe that Mrs. Vernon Castle made famous at the races, appeal to those of us who like something "different."

The mode breathes romance, and romance is what fashion thrives on. Every hat and every collar awakens a memory or tells a new tale. It is interesting to note that the Quaker collar has its origin in the collar of the man's costume. How scandalized the shades of the old-time Quaker and Puritan must be to see their collars made in frivolous organdy, Swiss and cretonne! Jabots and frills come from another period, when French courtiers wore furbelows. In modern times, Sara Bernhardt gives her famous youth-giving frill to the high collar; while the flaring half collars that are still shown on dresses and waists harp back to a portrait of Shelly. Nor is the mode without humor; "Chin-Chin" collars, aimed at a giddy masquerade costume, have gone far of the mark and appear on coats.

Past modes are drawn on for hats, too. In an exclusive shop, just off the avenue, one of the girls of the younger set ordered a garden hat the other day of white chip, with a pyramid of pink roses—the exact duplicate of the hat her great-great-grandmother wore when she tripped across the lawns at the Capitol. All these garden hats of leghorn and milan recall Colonial days. Even the "'rikisha," imported in spirit from Japan, smacks of this style when trimmed with roses, the black varnished cord of which it is made contrasting with the light frocks.

Broadly speaking, the hats of the season are divided into four classes; these portrait-fashion garden hats, stiff-brimmed sailors that bespeak the past or the present, according to the materials and trimmings; the sports hats, borrowed from the four corners of the globe, and last, but not least, the cocky turbans, which show the martial note in millinery.

The stiff-brimmed sailors are a chapter in themselves. Already, the straws are on the wane. Chiffon brims we have tired of, and so the attention naturally turns to sailors of blue taffeta, black velvet and cretonne. "America," the white, leather-faced, blue taffeta, is a worthy emblem to the country from which it takes its name. White beaded wings for trimming bring to mind the speed of Mercury; and the glory of ancient Rome lies in other bead trimming for other taffeta hats.

Black velvets, shiny and plushy as cats fur, are embroidered with fleecy white wool, as wintry as possible to shock the sun of summer. Birds and animals in the wool crawl over the crowns, and the brims are invariably finished in old-fashioned quilt-stitch, varied in length to make a design.

With white linen and cretonne costumes, "Mistress Mary" cretonne hats make a smart finish. These need no trimming, the bright colors being gay enough for any summer landscape, whether mountains, country or shore.

Sports hats come from odd nooks and corners. The latest, a dark blue taffeta, is decidedly Chinese in aspect. It has a sloping brim, with a soft edge an inch wide that flaps down and shades the face, dented on one side with heavy balls suspended from the ends of a cord tied around the crown. Scotland contributed the tam, and there is a soft hat made completely of narrow bias strips of silk that is finding favor under a "Made-in-America" label.

A Garden Hat of White Chip, the Military Turban and Sports Hat of Bias Silk Strips, With the Flaring, the Standing and the Quaker Collar.

Those of the turbans that are smart are military; tipped fearlessly to one side, with sides of velvet and crowns of silk. Indeed, so simple and so smart are these hats, they baffle description.

At the present time, hats come under these four classes, black and white prevailing, dark blue being the exception that proves the rule. Later, when suits grow darker, no doubt, hats will gain in brilliance. Already in Paris there is a trend in this direction. From the "City of Modes" we receive such messages as: "Occasionally, a very brilliant spot of color will be noticed in the hat, currant-colored hats or hats of the new blue de Petoile being worn with the tailored suits of beige, white, dark navy blue or brown"; that "The Italian military 'bersigliere' is being worn with its flowing cocks' plumes at the side"; and again, "The suits of tan are usually trimmed with wide shawl collars of white wool or faille silk, and are topped by tiny white hats or by broad-brimmed sailors made of soft white crepe de Chine."

OLD RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Isabella Graham Was Widow of Former Receiver-General for Vancouver Island.

An old resident, Mrs. Isabella Graham, passed away yesterday afternoon at the age of 77. The deceased lady, whose home was at 441 Simcoe street, was the widow of the late John Graham, for some years before confederation receiver-general for Vancouver island, and, afterwards, holding the same office for the provincial government.

Mrs. Graham was the daughter of the late Walter Aitken, and was born in Killcarn, Stirlingshire, Scotland. About forty years ago she came out to the Pacific coast, living for some time in California with a sister, Mrs. M. Johnson, of Pleasantown. In 1880 she came to Victoria, where she met and married Mr. Graham. Since his death seven years ago she had lived quietly at the old home on Simcoe street.

She had many friends in the city, having been active in good works during earlier years. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and well known among the congregation there. Rev. Dr. Clay will officiate at the funeral services which will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Martha Bushby, who has lived with her since Mr. Graham's death; and three nieces living on the Pacific coast: Mrs. M. Johnson, Mrs. L. Downing and Mrs. L. J. Raby.

Says No One Need Remain Thin Now

Physician's Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative force makes fat grow after years of thinness, and is also unequalled for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this peerless preparation, which is endorsed by eminent physicians and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A month's systematic use of Sargol should produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying highly concentrated fats to the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the additional fats that thin people need are provided. D. E. Campbell and other leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer, it should not be used by nervous people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

Your Choice For a Pleasant Evening

DOMINION THEATRE.

The debut of Ethel Barrymore in a screen play, "The Nightingale," devised especially for her by Augustus Thomas, which takes place on Monday at Dominion theatre, is a movie event even in this era of events. The general impression among members gathered at the first presentation of the play in New York was favorable to the positive merits of this noteworthy production. The play was received with close attention, and comments indicate that Miss Barrymore has achieved a success beyond all expectation. One critic writes as follows: "I became gradually charmed by her performance. She seems to be one of those all too rare and delightful spirits who possess an emotional temperament under the control of a cultivated mind. Miss Barrymore holds the eye every moment she is in the scene. She reaches the mind quite as much as she does the heart, and with a homespun unaffectedness that makes one glad they have been privileged to witness such a magnificent performance. "The Nightingale" is produced in five acts by the All Star Corporation and will be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the coming week.

MAY ENTER MOVIES.

There is every probability that Miss Lillian Jones, a member of the Salt Lake Beauties, now playing at the Pantages, will enter the moving picture field very shortly. Miss Jones, who is paying her second visit to Victoria, has had several offers from the leading film producers in California, and expects to close for an extended film engagement when the company reaches the south. As a member of the Shadow Girl company, Miss Jones is doing excellent work, and it was her splendid work in this show and also her performance in "The Wrong Bird" company a year ago, that attracted the attention of the film producers to this clever young vaudeville star.

ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE.

For the last time this evening the splendid feature film, "The Cricket on the Hearth," by Charles Dickens, will be shown at the Royal Victoria theatre. This picture was shown for the first time Thursday, and since then it has caused a lot of favorable comment. It makes the show well worth a visit without the rest of the very excellent programme that is being shown, and which includes "A Daughter's Strange Inheritance," a three-reel Vitagraph Feature; "The Starring of Flora Finchurch," a comedy, especially written for this well known picture actress. "Rushing the Lunch Counter," is a Ham comedy which is the cause of much hearty laughter while "The Heart of the Sheriff" is a one-reel drama with the plot laid in the west.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.

"The Dawn of a To-morrow," Frances Hodgson Burnett's great drama of faith, love and sacrifice, needs no introduction to the public, for it was in this country that the great play made its biggest successes. Neither does Mary Pickford need an introduction to the world of movie fans. The combination of Mary Pickford and "The Dawn of a To-morrow," however, is one to conjure with, and this amazing coalition of stellar talent and dramatic power the Famous Players Film company presents in its latest feature release on the Paramount Programme at the Columbia. Commencing Monday an entirely different style of photoplay will be presented in Charles E. Van Loan's famous baseball story "Little Sunset,' which created such a favorable impression when run in story form in the Saturday Evening Post. The story is a most interesting one and should appeal to all lovers of the great American national game.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

To-night will be the last opportunity presented for seeing the Allen Players in their little comedy, "Nobody's Widow," which has been one of the most talked of productions yet presented by these players. Certainly no other of their plays has seemed better suited for the display of the talents of the leading players. Many new faces have been seen at the Princess this week as a result of the play's attractions, and many retrospective laughs have been heard over the superlatively clever dialogue. The special attraction for to-night will be the drawing for the twenty prizes. This week they will be in the form of hardware, including all sorts of useful articles for the kitchen and the man who is handy about the house.

Beginning Monday night, the attraction for next week will be the famous play, "Caprice," which has earned world-wide renown, both as a starring vehicle for Mrs. Fiske and as a filmplay. The story is of a young country girl who marries above her station, only to find that her ignorance of the ways of the world is not considered as charming after marriage as it was before. Her subsequent disappearance and return as a social favorite in the very family which had scorned her creates a plot which gives unlimited scope for charming comedy and appealing heart interest. "Caprice" promises to be one of the most interesting offerings of the summer season.

PANTAGES THEATRE.

The "Piano Mover," is a screaming farce, which has traveled in the "big-time" will be one of the leading features of the Pantages programme next week. The bill also offers a musical feast and a sensational animal act in the Royal Italian Sextette, and the presence of Lady Alice's Pets. The Italian Sextette is composed of six of the former principals of the Italian Grand Opera company. The singers will undoubtedly prove immensely popular.

Lady Alice's animal act is unusual, the star performers being rats. Two well-trained cats and a dog also form part of the happy family, but it is the rats that earn the applause. They walk various kinds of ladders and obstructed inclines and walk the tight rope on four and then on two feet.

"The Piano Movers," is a clever satire presented by Edmund Hayes & Co. Two piano movers undertake to move an instrument, and the act consists in making "business" until the whistle blows, when they promptly quit work.

John P. Reed, a black-faced minstrel man, will offer some new songs and comedy patter. Dorsch & Russell play a number of instruments well in their act, "The Musical Railroaders." Belle Oliver will sing "Just One Song After Another."

Are We Downhearted? No!

Why should we be—business is good. Why!

There must be a reason!

There is!

Some weeks ago we took the public into our confidence and told them we were about to sign a contract with the mightiest Film Manufacturing concern in the universe, and that we would present to our patrons the greatest motion picture plays ever presented in any theatre.

And we have done it. Which proves once again that "When we do it, it's huge; when we say it, it's true."

We will commence with the "BROKEN COIN" on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 26, 27 and 28. This is positively the greatest serial photoplay ever produced.

The first of the FAMOUS BROADWAY FEATURES will be shown in this theatre within the next two weeks, and one every week thereafter. The last word in motion pictures, produced by the world's greatest film makers, with the world's greatest actors in the leading roles. These pictures are costing us a small fortune, but that is part of our established plan to give our patrons nothing but the best—the cost is but a secondary consideration.

If you miss a single programme at this theatre you will be denying yourself the treat of a lifetime.

Read every one of our advertisements. They are of immense importance to you.

Yours respectfully,

DOUBLE THE NUMBER.

To the Editor,—It is indeed splendid news to hear that the Canadian troops are to have double the number of machine guns the British regulations allow: It would be better still if the mark set were double the number the Germans have. This city, even these hard times, is one of the wealthiest per capita in the Dominion, and surely we should do as much in the matter as the eastern cities. Therefore this seems a good point to start a "Double the German Number" campaign.

SAANICH AFFAIRS.

To the Editor: Ward II. needs an active and intelligent representative. Their position in regard to fire protection, water service and street improvement, not omitting sewerage, presents a tangle of difficulty that can only be successfully solved by the best efforts of a bright man backed by a people that are united. This "Hayseed," who would be debarred by the secretary of the ward association from offering any suggestions, can very well afford to refrain from doing so. The oath of office, however, compels a councilor to interest himself in the betterment of the district as a whole, and so I must offend against his ruling and discuss with the people of that ward in their by-election the essentials necessary to secure a clean and moral community to live in. Politics have no place in municipal work. I regret that politics have been introduced by the government into the management of our local affairs.

Notwithstanding the contradiction of Messrs. Carey and McNichol, whose motives are well known to me, I must point out again that your late councillor as police and licence commissioner owed his appointment presumably to the government, but in reality to the local Conservative association. He and his colleagues were selected by a disgruntled faction of that party chiefly to annoy the present reeve and balance of the council. Good and tried Conservative members of the council were passed over and both offices given to Mr. Jones, an untried and inexperienced man. His programme in the dual capacity was discussed before his appointment, yes, even before his election as councilor. The trouble caused in Saanich by loss of control of the police force by the council has been very serious, leading to the lawlessness recently made public by the Burnside hotel prosecution. What the present vacancy offers is the opportunity to elect a man without political strings on him, who can as a commissioner or councilor work in harmony with the rest of his colleagues.

pacity under the United States steamboat regulations. I have no idea how the accident occurred."

FRANTIC EFFORTS TO REVIVE VICTIMS

Newspaper men were denied permission to go aboard the Roosevelt and policemen guarded its gangways. They declined to say how many bodies were aboard the ship, but rows of corpses could be seen on the decks. Frantic efforts were being made to revive victims. A score of pulmotors were brought into use and when life was found to be extinct the bodies were carried to another part of the ship and placed in rows. More than two hundred physicians were working over victims in temporary hospitals by ten o'clock.

"Nine girls and I were in a stateroom having a little party of our own when all of a sudden we felt the boat going over," said Miss Lottie Anderson, one of the survivors. "We all fell into a heap. The screams and shrieks of women in other staterooms were maddening. I fell into the water and did not see my sister or any of the eight others after that."

CHILDREN LOSE HOLD OF PARENTS

Mrs. H. P. Thoyer told of clinging to her two children, Harry, aged 7, and Helen, aged 8, after they and her husband, William Thoyer, had been pitched into the water. Mrs. Thoyer and Harry wtre rescued. She lost her hold on Helen, and the daughter with Mr. Thoyer, are believed to have been drowned. Mrs. Thoyer was hysterical when she reached a temporary shelter place.

"My husband and I and the children were standing on the deck, and all fell into the water in a heap," she said. "I am a good swimmer. I caught hold of my Harry and my Helen, and clung to them and kept myself up some way. I do not know how. I saw men and women tumbling into the water around me. My husband disappeared among them. I had Harry with my right arm and Helen with my left. I seemed to lose all strength in my left arm, and had to let go of Helen. She went down in the struggling mass. Then someone, a man with a uniform on, grabbed me and began swimming with me. I clung to my son, and when we got near the river bank some men pulled us up. Helen and her father must have gone down."

SCENES RECALLED THE IROQUOIS FIRE

The steamer Eastland was built in 1903, and owned by the Eastland Navigation Company of Cleveland. It was 265 feet long, 38 feet wide and had a draft of 23 feet, with a net tonnage of 1,218. It was brought to Chicago in 1904, and was used in the excursion business to Southaven, Mich., for several years.

Later it was taken to Cleveland, Ohio, and placed in the excursion service there. This spring the boat was remodelled. It was then brought to Chicago and put on the run to St. Joseph, Mich. It had a steel hull and was known as one of the fastest excursion boats on the Great Lakes. It had a speed of twenty-one miles an hour.

Scenes similar to those that followed the Iroquois theatre disaster cast gloom over the city along South Water street, Chicago's great produce centre. Commission firms practically suspended business and threw open the doors of their houses as temporary morgues and hospitals. All the big downtown department stores hurried truckloads of blankets to cover the injured, the drenched women and children who were huddled in shivering groups.

Comparisons with some of the steamers operated on this coast by the C.P.R. show that the Eastland was almost of the same tonnage as the Princess Mary, was five feet shorter than the Princess Patricia and had the same beam as the Princess Maquinna. While over 2,500 people were crammed on the Eastland when the disaster occurred, the three ships with which comparisons are made each carry in the neighborhood of 500 passengers. The Mary and Maquinna are both licensed for that number, while the Patricia can carry 530.

Even with an excursion license the Patricia only carries 960 passengers. Last summer the C.P.R. ran an excursion to Bellingham, Wash., on the flyer, and the number of excursionists was restricted to 960. With 2,500 people on board a vessel the size of the Eastland, there could not have been an inch of vacant space. The crowd would have prevented all efforts to launch lifeboats and liferafts and to release and distribute lifebelts to the passengers if the accident had occurred out in open water.

In the General Slocum disaster, which occurred in the East river, New York, on June 15, 1904, there were 1,200 lives lost when that excursion steamer was burned to the water's edge.

MINES MORE DEADLY THAN SUBMARINES

Italian Engineer Invented Floating Mines in Fifteenth Century

Mine-sweeping operations in the Dardanelles, without which the allied ships would find it impossible to make headway upon Constantinople, direct attention to the fact that mines have proved more deadly than submarines in the present war (says an exchange). The spectacular success of the submarine in a few cases has distracted public attention from the fact that the great terror of the deep, if we except the big battleship, is not the underwater boat, but the mine.

The mine is comparatively a modern adjunct of marine warfare, though it is claimed that the invention was made by an Italian engineer in 1585, when Antwerp was under siege. He floated kegs of gunpowder against a bridge, which was partially destroyed, and some authorities give him credit with being the discoverer of that mode of warfare that has played so important a part in the present struggle.

An American Invention.

For more than two centuries after the exploit of this Italian engineer, whose very name is forgotten, the artifice appears to have been neglected, and it was not until 1775 that the submarine mine, or, as it was then called, the torpedo, was employed by David Bushnell, a native of Maine. Bushnell was also a pioneer in the development of the submarine boat, and in 1776 tried to destroy the British ship Eagle in New York harbor. He had a submersible boat, but no torpedo tube. His idea was to approach the vessel under the water, and attach an explosive to her keel by means of a screw. Unfortunately for his experiment the point chosen happened to be protected by a strip of iron, and it was found impossible to drive home the screw. The following year, at Philadelphia, he floated a number of kegs of gunpowder down the river in an attempt to destroy some British ships. The powder exploded as expected, but the ships were not damaged. Nevertheless, Bushnell was the first man to demonstrate that powder could be exploded under water.

Fulton's and Colt's Discoveries.

It was left to another American to continue the experiments with submarine mines, and Robert Fulton, the great inventor, devised a mine in 1801 with which he destroyed ships offered for the purpose of the experiment. This was the first case on record when a ship was sunk by a charge exploded under the water. Fulton took his invention to France, and again demonstrated it successfully, and afterwards he went to England. Both countries, however, appeared not to see any great value in his experiments, and another forty years elapsed without further progress being made in the development of the principles discovered by Fulton.

It was in 1842 that Colonel Colt, of revolver fame, exploded the first submarine gunpowder mine by means of an electric current, and the following year by the same agency he was the first to destroy a vessel under way. Since then advances in the science of mines has been rapid, and the names of many discoverers appear. It was in 1863, during the American civil war, that the first war vessel was sunk by a mine, the victim being the Union gunboat Cairo. In the same year the Confederates practically destroyed the Commodore Barney, and in the following year completely destroyed the Commander Jones and the monitor Tecumseh. In the Russo-Japanese war the Japanese lost two battleships off Port Arthur by Russian mines, and the Russians lost a cruiser and a minelayer.

Two Types of Mines.

In the present war there are two general types of mines employed, the contact mine and the observation mine. The latter may be either submerged or floating. It does not explode on contact, but only when it is electrically discharged from the shore. There have been few observation mines fired in the present war, although we have a reason to expect that the Dardanelles is well equipped with them. Some of the contact mines are called buoyant, and float upon the surface of the water. Others are anchored to the bottom. The explosive in most cases is guncotton, because of the safety with which it can be handled, stored, and even used in a wet state.

In modern times special ships have been prepared for mine-laying. While going at full speed they can drop mines in their wake, and a great area of the sea can be rendered dangerous in a very short time by one of them. There are two means of defence against the mines—one employed by the British for the first time in the present war. This method is being successfully adopted in the Dardanelles. It consists in a special contrivance, which drags in the rear of a trawler, and picks up the mines in the zone that it is desired to clear. The trawlers being of small draught can, as a rule, float safely over the mines, which are designed to explode when they come in contact with larger craft of greater draught. The other scheme is to fire counter-mines. A number of smaller explosives are discharged in the mine-infested waters, and in many cases they cause the mines to discharge by concussion. These counter-mines are usually fired by control from either shore or battleship.

"Only a couple of months ago you said you'd share your last half-crown with me," said Baxter, who was unsuccessfully attempting to negotiate a loan. "I know I did, old man," replied the man who was keeping his hands in his pockets, "but I haven't got down to my last half-crown yet."

AUSTRALIANS IN ANOTHER BALACLAVA

How Australians and New Zealanders Rushed the Hill Positions of Stubborn Turk

A private of Victoria, N. S. W., who enlisted in New South Wales, was seriously wounded by a rifle-bullet, which passed through his jaws. Writing from Kasr-el-ainy hospital, at Cairo, he says: "We have heard a great deal of the noble deeds of the six hundred at Balaclava, but had the 11th not been the men they are, or if the Turks had had the resolution of our fellows, not one of our men would have been left to tell the tale. The Turkish snipers were doing great work as we rushed up. Crack! and a man would roll down the hill with a bullet in his head. Then a good Australian voice on the left would cry out, 'The coots have got me,' and as they fell their dominant feeling seemed to be, not dread of death, but grievous disappointment at not being able to continue in the firing-line. Our chaps were getting bullets in every part of the body, but this only made the more lucky ones the more determined to get in a few shots at the enemy before going down. How the doctors and the A. M. C. men had to work! On the way to obey an order for reinforcements I got separated from my company. I came to a gallant young captain, who was wounded and exhausted. He left me in charge here, and then crawled back. At about dusk a dozen New Zealanders came along under a sergeant, and between us we did our best to hold the enemy. We were in a literal death-trap. We were extending one of our trenches when we heard a voice call out in excellent English, 'Hands up.' Our little party put down their picks and shovels. It was done in an instant. We had just before had word sent to us that a party of Indians were coming to relieve us. They proved to be Turks. In an effort to save the situation I took the risk of a bullet and bolted for Major Bennett's lines. I only had to duck down the hill for 50 yards. An officer there told me to return, as they could not spare any assistance just then. I did so, but my party was no longer there when I got back. They had evidently been carried off by the Turks.

"I dug in with the 3rd battalion for the night, but we got no rest; we had to lie down all night with fixed bayonets waiting for the enemy, but they did not come again. Next day a dozen of us went into the firing line to bring back wounded, but as the Turks saw what was going on they again commenced to pour showers of lead into us. After this I was sent to take charge of a battle outpost, and things were very lively there for a time. Later a man was wanted to take charge of a firing line on the right flank, and I got there luckily without being hit, but I had not long to wait.

A Brave Corporal.

"I should like to mention a young corporal, to whom in the battle I handed over some support trenches. He had already been there three days and nights, but went on working with a grit and ability that could not be surpassed, if equalled, by any of the officers. It was inspiring even to come in contact with him. Where I was now I only had cover for my head. All the men were done; and it was a great task to keep the poor chaps awake. They were so exhausted that they would have gone to sleep in the actual firing at this time. At dawn I saw a party of Turks retreating, and ordered a volley to be poured into them. I joined in this, and then put up my head for a second shot, and received a sniper's bullet right through the jaw. The flow of blood nearly choked me, and I had many hours of suffocating misery from the effects of it congealing in my throat. I held on for a while, and then tried to crawl back. I could not speak, but a pal gave me a hand down, and just as he let go of my arm he went down himself with a bullet right through the head. I could not go any farther, and then the A. M. C. men came and carried me off. For nights I could not go to sleep, being afraid I would choke with the blood."

A ROYAL OVERSIGHT.

The villa in which the king and queen of the Belgians reside at present is close to the high road by which the king's grandfather, Leopold I., entered Belgium in 1831 when the crown was offered to him.

It is at this villa that the king and queen received the other day General Foch, who commands the armies of the republic in the north. At lunch the queen sat at the head of the table, with General Foch on her right and the king on her left. The conversation of their guest so deeply interested the royal hosts that they very nearly forgot the object for which they had invited him, which was to hand him the insignia of the order which had just been conferred on him.

The general had already taken his leave and was seated in his motor-car when King Albert ran out of the villa, jumped on the step of the car, and hurriedly handed over the precious casket, with apologies for his absence of mind.

A FREAK.

A lad, whose age might have been guessed as thirteen, went up to a booking office on the South-Eastern and Chatham railway and said to the clerk, "Two halves to the Elephant and Castle, please!" "How old are you?" asked the clerk. "Eleven years," replied the lad. "For whom is the other half?" "For my brother." "And how old is your brother?" "Just a month younger than I am, sir!"

WITH AUSTRALIANS AT THE DARDANELLES

How the Gallant Fighters of Our Sister Dominion Are Forging Ahead

A captain writes from the Deaconesses' hospital, Alexandria, to a friend in Melbourne, Aust.: "Ere this reaches you, you will have seen my name in the first list of wounded, knocked out first day—a bit of hard luck; still, it could have been worse. I stopped one fair on the elbow and downwards; it came side on, and made a nice large hole. This is now a fortnight ago tomorrow (Sunday); however, it is healing up nicely, and I expect to be at the front again in a week, and expect to stop some more. Well, we were given a very tough job, such as I do not wish to see again. It was a real Gibraltar to tackle, and if positions were reversed—well, all the armies in the world would not have shifted us. We were fired at from the time we left the ships until we got back again. Some never reached the shore. Our tow was lucky, and we got ashore without a man being hit, and then we started to climb practically a mountain. And the shrapnel—well, it came like hail, and the machine-guns ripped it in, and, what with snipers, it was a perfect hell. Goodness only knows how we came out of it alive.

Turks Wear Bushes.

"The men were very steady, and pushed on, although they were dropping all over the place. It was thick, scrubby country, and you could not see anything. The Turks had bushes tied around them; also wore our uniform—some German officers were killed wearing it. I had a narrow squeak of it; was hit in right-hand top pocket, but my cheque book, photos and letters turned the bullet off; and in my left-hand pocket, right over the heart, a testament my mother gave me got a bullet right through it, but it turned it off also, otherwise I was a dead 'un, sure.

"I was leading my men when I got bowled over, and, after getting tied up, I tried to go on, but kept falling over, and my wound broke out afresh; so I handed over and turned back. I had to go nearly two miles, and was under fire the whole time. I did not expect ever to get back, and while on the beach waiting for boats we were under shell fire the whole time. After we pushed off we got a dose, but it never hit the boat. We did not get here till Friday night. There were 840 wounded on our boat, and only two doctors. They lay all over the place—no beds, just anywhere. This is a German hospital, belonging to some religious order; all German sisters, and they are good; they look after us well. Dr. Morrison, a Scotchman, has taken over the place, which is the best in Egypt: he is very clever. We are in private wards, magnificent premises and appointments. I am lucky to be here; only Australian officers here—English and French soldiers, but none of our men. The society women of Alexandria help here; we get free shaves, hair cuts and cigarettes. Splendid climate, like spring weather, cool and nice seabreeze. My nerves are not right yet, and I cannot do much writing or reading on account of it. They have sent officers who were likely to be ill for six weeks home to England; that was if they could walk. I did not get a chance at all."

MORE MEN FOR NAVY.

At a recent sitting of the British Commons, the navy supplementary estimate was considered.

Dr. Macnamara (secretary to the admiralty) said, in asking for authority to enrol and embody 50,000 additional officers and men for the royal navy, making the total number for the year 300,000, he should explain that they were at the same time satisfying parliamentary procedure, and looking ahead. These men were not required because of any manning needs of the fleet. They had under arms and under training all the men they wanted at present, and they did not expect any difficulty whatever in supplying their future needs.

They were now asking authority to have the men ready as and when the future required. The committee might rest assured that no difficulty had been experienced, and none was expected, in meeting the requirements due to the expansion of the fleet. So keen had been the desire to join the navy, and recruiting had been so good, that they had already more than the 250,000 men voted. The additional number they were taking power to enrol would be recruited for the royal navy, the royal marines, the royal naval reserve and the royal naval volunteer reserve.

Mr. Lambert (late civil lord), speaking as an old member of the board of admiralty, said the navy was the master key of the situation, and it would exercise a predominating influence in ending the war. He hoped he would not be giving information to the enemy when he said he knew that the navy had an ample supply and adequate reserves of ammunition.

The resolution was agreed to.

GERMANS IN GALICIA.

In well-informed circles (the London correspondent of the Scotsman says) the Austro-German effort in Galicia is regarded as more political than military. It is meant to impress the Balkan nations, and if possible to make Russia seek a separate peace. I am told that an attempt in the latter direction was made some time ago through a pro-German clique in Petrograd. It was at once repudiated. When the proposal was mentioned to the Grand Duke Nicholas, he replied that if he had been disposed to consider it as he was not—his army would decline to follow him

CONNAUGHT RANGERS MAINTAIN REPUTATION

Won by Them in Peninsula Wars When They Were Famed for Hard Fighting

A famous Irish regiment is the Connaught Rangers, which received its title, "The Devil's Own," just a century ago in the famous Peninsular campaign in Spain and Portugal during the Napoleonic wars. That it still retains its reputation as a fighting force is illustrated by a letter from a private of the Gordon Highlanders, to his father in Scotland, describing a thrilling battle somewhere near the Franco-Belgian frontier. The letter is as follows:

"I am after leaving the trenches, where we have been for about 10 days, and we are now enjoying a well-earned rest at ——. You may have heard of the severe fighting by this time. It was awful, and I am sorry to say many of our poor fellows will never come home again.

"One night we were informed that the Germans would make an attack on our trenches, so not an eye was closed that night. About 4 o'clock we thought it was a false alarm, and we settled down to enjoy forty winks, when their artillery opened fire on us. Our trenches for two miles were a V-shape, and the 'Huns' seemed to direct all their guns on this part, but, thanks to their marksmanship, our immediate neighborhood didn't get much attention at first.

"We were near what I think you call the apex of the V, and howling and screaming shells passed over us well until we heard the throbbing of an aeroplane. Then a searchlight played on us, followed by the dropping of bright balls which brilliantly lit up the whole place, and in a few minutes the shells got us, and were coming plump into us. One shell came right into our position and knocked over 12 of our fellows. They were practically torn asunder, and the whole side of the trench was torn up.

"Our own guns were blazing away, and, I think, found the fellows who were annoying us, as their fire got slacker and finally ceased. This thing was kept up till day dawned, and we lost (remainder of sentence censored).

"Then we saw the 'Huns' advancing as unconcerned as if on parade. On they came in close formation, and there must have been ten to one against us. We fired as hard as we could, but they seemed to come out of nowhere and never halted. When they were getting too close we charged. It was our only chance. When they saw us leave the trenches, they halted for a moment, but afterwards they came on to meet us. I don't remember much of what took place then.

"It was stab and hack, hack and stab. You could hear the smash of gun against gun, the thud, thud, but beyond this there was an uncanny silence, broken sometimes by an oath or groan. How long this went on I hardly know, but it seemed years to me.

"We drove them back about one hundred yards. Our officers saw the Germans reinforced, and sounded the retreat, but owing to few machine-guns we couldn't get back to our trenches. The Germans, now greatly increased, came on again, and our fellows, only about 170 left, got ready to meet what seemed certain annihilation.

"But just at that moment we heard the sound of singing and the song was 'God Save Ireland.' It was the Connaught Rangers coming to our relief. Well, I have seen some reckless Irishmen in my time, but nothing to match the recklessness and daring of these gallant Rangers. They took the Germans on the left flank.

"The Germans now numbered about 2,000, against 800 Rangers and 70 of us, but had they been 50,000 Germans I don't believe in my soul they could have stood before the Irish. They were simply irresistible, and all the time kept singing 'God Save Ireland.' One huge red-haired son of Erin, having broken his rifle, got possession of a German officer's sword, and everything that came in the way of this giant went down. I thought of Wallace.

"Four hundred and seventy 'Huns' were killed and wounded, and we took seventy prisoners. Had it not been for the Irish I wouldn't be writing this; and when it comes to hand-to-hand jobs there is nothing in the whole British army to approach them. God save Ireland and Irishmen."

EDINBURGH PRIVILEGE.

The King's Own Scottish Borderers, occasionally known as "The Bothers," alone among Scottish regiments have the privilege of marching through the streets of Edinburgh with bayonets fixed and flags flying. On all occasions the right is exercised to the full, and about a fortnight ago, in a recruiting march, only the K. O. S. B. men in the long line of soldiers had their bayonets on their rifles. A petition has now been presented to the lord provost of Edinburgh on behalf of the 15th Battalion Royal Scots (1st City of Edinburgh) asking the grant of a similar privilege. The lord provost has acknowledged receipt of the petition and intimated that he is to inquire as to how the distinction was granted, whether a similar privilege could again be bestowed, and who has the power to bestow it. The 15th Royal Scots is the battalion which was raised by the lord provost for service in the present war, and when the war is over it will probably be disbanded; and it is pointed out that the 4th and 5th Battalions Royal Scots are also Edinburgh regiments which still receive their more familiar title of "The Queen's."

"Will you love me for ever and a day?" sighed the newly-betrothed heiress. "It all depends," replied the scion of an ancient but impoverished family. "Do you think your money will last that long?"

SCANDINAVIA AND THE GREAT CONFLICT

Norway is Strongly Pro-Ally but Sweden Inclines Towards the Germanic Powers

The people of the Scandinavian countries are lacking in the volatile qualities that cause those of warmer climes to give expression to their sympathies and sentiment, but there is little difficulty, nevertheless, in ascertaining in goodly measure the feeling about the war, writes S. Gordon in the New York Sun.

Sweden is the most ostentatiously neutral of the three countries. There is a studied effort apparently on the part of even the humblest to avoid any but temperate discussion of war subjects. In the beginning Swedish sympathy was undoubtedly pro-German. That was due to two causes. Russia has long been looked upon as a possible menace to Swedish independence. Russia has been feared mightily, and there is still an undercurrent of that ancient fear.

And then the queen is German and outspoken in her German attitude. It is repeatedly stated here that she was insistent on Sweden joining forces with the kaiser at the outbreak of hostilities. German emissaries sought Sweden's assistance vigorously, and it is commonly reported that the minister of Germany was recalled because of his inability to convince the Swedish officials that it was to this country's advantage to cast her lot with Germany and Austria. That minister went away without making official farewells, and this caused no small amount of unfavorable comment. And then Swedish ships have been sunk by German mines, and Swedish lives have been lost on the high seas. That these things have caused a change in sentiment favorable to the allies is beyond question. But, as stated, it is not a violent sentiment.

Norwegians Sing "Tipperary."

In Norway it is different. There sentiment is pro-Ally, English is spoken almost everywhere in Christiania, Englishmen have made Norway a summer playground for many years. Norway has known the Britisher as a good spender, if nothing more. Wherefore Norway is singing "Tipperary" voluminously. Literally is this true. In one concert hall in Christiania a few days ago out of eight acts in a vaudeville show, "Tipperary" was sung six times, the audience joining in with vim and vigor and applauding the singers again and again. One girl with a rather good voice was recalled five times.

Denmark, according to those who have recently visited Copenhagen, is even more strongly pro-Ally than Norway, more, however, through fear of German territorial aggression than for any love of the English. But all three of the northern lands are profiting by the war. Trade with England, Russia and France has increased enormously, and a full pocketbook has a most soothing effect on those of any race. There is little of the American anxiety to have the war stop. Scandinavia simply shrugs her shoulders and sells some more fish and cheese to the fighters.

THE LUSITANIA.

The Lusitania is supposed to rest on a fairly hard bottom in from 300 to 400 feet of water. As a salvage prize, says H. H. Windsor in The Popular Mechanics' Magazine, the ship and some of its cargo are worth recovering if they can be raised in a reasonable length of time. So far as we can learn, no intention to attempt recovery of the ship has been announced, and war conditions, of course, render any possible attempt unusually difficult.

And yet it cannot be finally said such a raising is absolutely impossible, although the engineers may estimate the cost at a figure which makes the effort impracticable.

Ship and cargo would represent probably a weight of, say, 40,000 tons. No such large vessel has ever been raised even from less depths, hence, the problem presents difficulties which have never been solved in actual practice.

That we have no precedent, however, does not in itself establish an impossibility. Given apparatus of sufficient size and strength, theoretically, of course, it could be accomplished. Whether or not it would pay is another matter. The bare possibility, however, is one which cannot fail to interest engineer and layman alike. Much would doubtless depend on the ability of divers to descend to a depth which must establish new records by at least 100 feet, and to perform any useful work after getting down.

Considerable advance has been made of late in diving work, and a recent invention consisting of a hollow metal sphere, now under construction, claims ability to put two men down 1,000 feet, with control of the vehicle to permit the occupants moving it about, or anchoring it to a ship's side. Through windows the diver could observe the work of placing chains on cables, and by means of telephones direct the work of those on the surface. Instead of groping in the dark as formerly, the men above would practically observe their own work through the eyes of the divers, in this way not only greatly facilitating operations, but making the effort effective where otherwise it might be largely experimental.

It has been suggested that an effort of this nature would probably consist in raising the hull a few feet and dragging it inshore until it struck bottom; then raising and moving forward again, until it reached shallow water where ordinary divers could work for several hours at a time.

Meetings Next Week.

Monday.—Victoria lodge, No. 1.

Tuesday.—Colfax Rebekah lodge, No. 1.

Wednesday.—Columbia lodge, No. 2.

Thursday.—Dominion lodge, No. 4.

Colfax Rebekah Lodge, No. 1.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of Colfax lodge will be held next Tuesday evening.

Vancouver Encampment, No. 1.

Owing to a vacancy occurring in the office of high priest last Tuesday evening, Pat. F. Forneri was advanced to that position, Pat. B. Shaver was promoted to the office of senior warden, and Pat. R. M. Sanburn was elected to the office of junior warden. The patriarchal degree will be conferred at the next meeting.

Columbia Lodge, No. 2.

A practice in the initiatory degree was held last Wednesday evening as the degree will be conferred on Wednesday evening next. It is hoped there will be a good attendance.

Dominion Lodge, No. 4.

A very important matter in connection with the members of this lodge serving at the front was discussed last Thursday evening, and a committee was appointed to investigate and report to the lodge.

Sons of England.

Juvenile Young England lodge met on Wednesday evening. Two new members were initiated. The quarterly balance sheet was read and adopted. The balance in hand is very good considering the short time the lodge has been in existence. Alexandra lodge met the same evening, and the usual business was gone through, one new member being initiated. The quarterly balance sheet of this lodge is very satisfactory. During the three months a large amount was paid in sick benefits. The members are also keeping thirty-seven members in good standing, who are serving with the colors. It is rumored that in the near future there will be a grand lodge for British Columbia. Lodge Pride of the Island meets next Tuesday. All members are asked to attend, as several interesting letters are to be read. All members of this lodge who wish advancement to the W. R. D. are asked to send their names to the secretary, Bro. A. E. Brindley, 1617 Pembroke street, as a meeting will be held shortly. Dr. Grant is the acting physician for the three lodges, and his office is in the Campbell building.

HE DID NOT GET HER.

"I'm very sorry, Mr. Dixon," said a fair young girl at a dance to a youth who had asked if he might take her in to supper, "but I've promised to go in to supper with some one else. But I'll introduce you to a very handsome and clever girl." "No," replied the disappointed young man disconsolately, "I don't want a handsome and clever girl; I want you!"

"He who puts his hand to the plough," smreamed the street-corner orator, "must not turn back!" "What's he to do when he gets to the end of a furrow?" asked the auditor in the corduroy trousers.

Germany's Mind After Eleven Months of War

By a Neutral Correspondent in the London Chronicle.

The internal condition of Germany has not yet reached a point when there is any apparent weakening of the national strength to carry on the war with grim and persistent energy. Financially her position is adequate to supply the needs of the army and the nation as long as the war may last. That is to say, by using her internal resources and by the issue of paper money to her own people Germany is not in any kind of desperate straits for gold. What will come after the war, her inevitable bankruptcy—unless by victory she can secure enormous indemnities—and her ruinous loss of trade are not, of course, a matter of present discussion; but it should be realized by England that the war is not likely to cease because of financial distress in her enemy's country. Food supplies are also satisfactory. Apart from meat, which is rising steadily in price and becoming steadily scarcer, there is no lack whatever of the necessities of life; nor is there likely to be. Intensive culture is being adopted on a large scale, and small plots of ground are being used by all the families who own them for the purpose of growing fruit and vegetables, so that the amount of produce is being increased to a very considerable degree. For all military supplies, in ammunition, guns, and other equipment, the organization in Germany is enormous in its scope and perfect efficiency.

A Saddened Nation.

It is not in material things, but in the psychology of the German people that one may find any possibility of a breakdown of military ambitions, and even in that respect there are no outward signs of weakness. On the whole the Germans are confident of ultimate victory, and cannot bring themselves to view the possibility of suing for peace. Their successes in Russia are, of course, chiefly responsible for this optimism, which will be increased by the fall of Lemberg, and they are fairly satisfied with the military situation on all sides of their fronts. Nevertheless, underneath all this confidence is the actual facts of the war there is a sense of profound sadness at the enormous and terrible cost which has to be paid in human life. Almost every family in Germany is in mourning for dead sons and relatives, and I could quote many cases in which whole families have been practically annihilated. There is, for instance, one lady in Berlin, closely connected with the court, who, before the war, used to give family tea-parties, attended, among others by no fewer than 17 young men who were her cousins. Of that number 16 have been killed, and the remaining one is at the front. A well-known statesman has lost 14 of his close relatives, and although these doubtless are exceptional cases, they are significant of the frightful losses which are draining Germany of her life's blood. Intelligent people of all classes fully realize this tragic price of the war, and the future seems to them full of uncertainty and distress. They cannot perceive how the war is going to end. The first flame of their hatred for England has died down, and, in spite of the ridicule and contempt flung originally at the British army in Flanders, they acknowledge that Great Britain will go on and on without yielding, so that the war is likely to continue for a long time, with its never-ceasing slaughter of Germany's manhood. Already the nation has called upon the first flower of youth. Nothing seemed to me more tragic than when I saw one of these youthful regiments entraining for the front in Flanders. They were all men of under twenty years of age, and many of them looked no more than 16. Great pressure also is being brought to bear on the schoolboys of Germany to come forward as volunteers, and to train themselves in military exercises. Formerly it was strictly forbidden to use any kind of influence upon the parents of these boys, or the boys themselves, to enrol themselves in cadet corps, but the Social Democrats are exceedingly angry at the secret forms of compulsion now being exerted.

Future of Germany.

So far the sadness of the people at the brooding horror which is over them has no effect upon the military or diplomatic situation. The leaders of the Social Democrats—men like Edward Bernstein—are much more concerned with the future of Germany and the progress in democratic liberties after the war than with military aggrandisement or immediate demands for peace. For the time being that power has been crushed by the militarists. In my opinion there is no prospect whatever of a revolution in Germany either during or after the war, unless the Hohenzollern dynasty is overthrown by the allies. The spirit of the German people is essentially antagonistic to revolution, and democracy will try to gain greater liberties without bloodshed or civil disorder. The German emperor is still very popular, although he has very little power either in the war zone or in diplomacy. He deliberately seeks to withdraw himself from the direct responsibility of military operations and of political negotiations. The crown prince is so unpopular that Germans prefer not to talk about him, or shrug their shoulders at the mention of his name. There are many stories current about his way of life at the front, and it was a great shock to German traditions and sensibilities when he failed to appear at the christening of his newborn child. He has only been home once since the beginning of the war.

The political ambitions of Germany are represented by two opposing forces in those of the Chancellor, Bethmann-Hollweg and Admiral von Tirpitz. The chancellor has adopted moderate and peaceful views as to the claims of Germany in this war and the terms likely to result from it. He is opposed to the permanent domination of Belgium and to ambitious schemes of an imperial aggrandisement. Von Tirpitz, on the other hand, represents the extreme militarist party of the Junkers, who hold that now is the time to smash the British Empire and to enrich Germany out of the spoils of this destruction. His plan is to make peace with Russia, to hurl back the armies on the eastern front to the French and British lines, to break through to Calais, and to concentrate all the power of attack upon England alone. To further this plan he and his party advocate war with America in order that the submarine attacks upon British shipping may be unhampered by having to respect American vessels. Upon the rival influences of the chancellor and the admiral will depend the final answer to the American note.

THE ATTRACTION.

The Countess of Warwick sometimes finds that her title rather interferes with her efforts as a reformer. "I suppose," she once observed at a public meeting, "that you have all come here to give your support to the resolution in favor of the medical inspection of school children?" "Oh, no, we haven't," said a voice—"we've come to see you!"

THE BRITISH LOSSES.

The Lancet, discussing the statistics of the casualties announced by the prime minister in the British House of Commons, says:

Of the total losses in the army the killed numbered 3,327 officers and 47,015 non-commissioned officers and men. In no previous war of which we have accurate statistical records has there been so great a loss of life in a similar period of time, and the figures dealing with the army can be submitted to certain rough comparisons.

Throughout the Crimean campaign the British losses were 2,755 killed and 12,094 woulded; and our allies lost 8,250 killed and had 39,868 wounded. In the Franco-German war of 1870-71, during the whole period from July to April, the Germans had 17,570 killed and 96,189 wounded. In the Russo-Turkish war of 1877 the Russians lost 32,780 killed and had 73,286 wounded. In the South African war there were 5,256 killed in action and 26,286 wounded. In the absence of authoritative statistics as to the numbers of men engaged, it is impossible to compare the relative losses by wounds and by death in the present campaign with previous experiences.

The ratio of killed to wounded and missing is as 1 to 4.25, or 23.5 per cent. In the Crimea the ratio of killed to the number wounded and missing was as 1 to 4.4, or 22.7 per cent.; in the Franco-German war of 1870 it was as 1 to 5.70, or 17.53 per cent.; in the Russo-Turkish war it was as 1 to 2.17, or 45.98 per cent.; in South Africa it was as 1 to 5, or 20 per cent. The proportion of killed and wounded has therefore so far been similar to, but slightly in excess of, our experiences in the Crimea and South Africa.

Among officers, the proportion of killed to wounded has been in the present war much higher than in the case of the men—namely, as 1 to 2.3, or 43.61 per cent.; it forms our main anxiety.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

In 1487 Bartholomew Diaz sailed far enough south along the western coast of Africa not only to descry but to double the Cape of Storms, as it was then called, and as the coast was ascertained to run toward the northeast the prospect of success in the direction of India seemed now so clear that the Portuguese monarch renamed the cape "Cabo de Boa Esperanza," or Cape of Good Hope. The "good hope" was realized in 1498 by Vasco da Gama, who, doubling the southernmost point of Africa, sailed on to Calicut, thus opening up the long-dreamed of route to India.

Economy is not always deserving of praise. The man who smokes the same clay pipe for twelve years, for instance, is not much of a blessing to the community in which he lives.

Ordinary Tires End Where "Tractions" Commence

After every other tire has had its say, Dunlop Traction Tread is still on the "long distance" line because what are featured as special points in some other tires come under the head of "Taken-for-granted" in Dunlop Traction Tread. In other words, where ordinary non-skids end, Dunlop Traction Tread commences in earnest.

Dunlop Traction Tread costs us more to make. Knowing this fact, you may ask why we advertise this tire instead of "Special," "Cross-Groove," "Wire-Grip," "Rubber-Studded," or Plains, all of which are made in the Dunlop factories, and give good service.

We advertise "Traction" because it is our leader—our Sunday suit as it were — because we believe no other tire can march out a record of successes which can touch it. Where can you—in all the wide world—find a tire record like this?

¶ Dunlop Traction Tread introduced to Canadian motorists in 1911 as a distinctly new-idea anti-skid tire.

¶ Went across the continent on Pathfinder Aug.—Oct., 1912 — a marvellous trip of road mastery.

¶ With a world market to choose from, voluntarily selected by Braunwarth, Inc., New York, in 1913, as the best tire in the universe.

¶ During 1914 no less than three foreign countries made a bid for the Traction ageney.

¶ Sales of this one type of tire alone, by 1915, sufficient in total to equip every automobile in Canada.

DUNLOP TREAD — SEAL OF QUALITY — TRACTION

"Most Envied Tire In All America"

You can simply find no equal for the Traction record, because there is no equal to the Traction Tire.

SAFETY was an uncertain factor in motoring till Traction came.

SKIDDING lurked near in motoring till Traction came.

MILEAGE was "short" on the market till Traction came.

PUNCTURES were ever-present till Traction came.

DUST was a bane to motoring till Traction came.

LOOSENED TREADS made tire service costly till Traction came.

And with the coming of Traction came a great increase in the number of cars driven by women. It standardized motoring. It made certain what would be eliminated in tire trouble and exactly what help autos would get from tires in making the journey comfortable and pleasurable.

You have not done justice to your car unless you have introduced it to Master Dunlop Traction Tread. 1,500 agents located in every part of Canada will see to your tire wants, on request. At least one of our agents is located in your town, and you can make sure he is reliable or he wouldn't be selling the Dunlop line.

Dunlop Traction Tread is our leader, but we also make Dunlop "Special"—(the regular type of non-skid) — "Cross-Groove," "Wire-Grip," "Rubber-Studded," Plains, and the famous lines of Red and Grey Tubes.

CRUCIAL MEETING OF NORTHWESTERN LEAGUE TO BE HELD AT SEATTLE

Federals Threaten New Raid; Tinker After Jack Ness; Baseball Gossip

Whether or not the Northwestern league will continue with six clubs, will be decided at to-night's meeting of the league, the gathering to be held at Seattle. Bob Brown gave out an interview at the Terminal City this week in which he stated that the league would eliminate Spokane and Victoria. A later report from Tacoma credited McGinnity with the intention of releasing his players after this week. The Tacoma club is playing good ball, but it has always been a poor financial prospect.

President R. L. Blewett has already applied to the National commission for permission to suspend his league by August 1, and the reply of Secretary Farrell will be read at to-morrow's gathering. If the league decided to cut to four clubs the players of the two teams that will be disbanded will be turned over to the league and the pick of these men distributed amongst the clubs that remain intact.

San Francisco, July 24.—Too much baseball has been played on the Pacific coast for the past three or four years. In 1913 the All-Americans and All-Nationals visited the Pacific coast on their trip around the world, while last season two teams, supposedly representing the New York Giants and Philadelphia Americans, visited the coast in the fall.

Exhibition games are barred in the major leagues before and after the season. The parks are closed after the season closes and remain closed until the season opens next year, and the same law should be put in vogue in this league.

Detroit Invited.

However, it is said that President Hugh Navin, of Detroit, and Manager Harry Wolverton, of San Francisco, have practically arranged for the Detroit Tigers to train here next spring. If this is true, the P. C. L. directors should inform Mr. Navin that they have decided to abolish exhibition games.

The P. C. L. season is the longest in organized baseball, thanks to California's balmy weather, and the directors should let it go at that. Close the gates when the schedule is completed; open them again when the season commences.

Ty Cobb has stolen more bases this season than the entire Philadelphia National team. He has scored more runs than any two men in the National, and is running amuck with hardly any possibility of being corralled.

Los Angeles, July 24.—Jack Ness, first sacker of the Oakland club, who set a world's record by hitting safely in forty-nine consecutive games, yesterday received a wire from Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago Federals, asking if he would consider a proposition to jump to the Federal league. Ness replied to Tinker's message, asking the Chicago manager to make him a definite proposition.

Chicago, July 24.—Officials of the Federal league met secretly here yesterday afternoon to plan a raid on the players in organized baseball. "We had expected that Judge Landis' decision would have been handed down beore this," said President Gilmore. "But it is not forthcoming, and now we propose to get the players we want and then await the outcome of the suit. Scores of players are ready to jump."

Los Angeles, July 24.—Pitcher Alva Gipe, who was sold by Seattle to the New York Giants, who turned him over to St. Paul, has received an order by telegraph from Manager Blankenship, of Salt Lake, to report to him at once.

Chicago, July 24.—The suspension of Manager Rowlands, of the Chicago Americans, which was imposed three days ago and which aroused Owner Comiskey to make charges that the umpiring in the American league this year was the worst he had ever seen, was lifted yesterday. It has been in effect three days, following a heated argument between Rowland and the umpires in the Boston series.

HITS AND ERRORS HELPED THE GIANTS

Victoria Played Punk Ball, Seattle Making It Fifteen Straight

Seattle, July 24.—And still those Seattle Giants keep on winning. Their record is now fifteen consecutive victories, and no signs of cracking. They are only half a game behind the Vancouver champions, and just aching to pass them. Yesterday the score was: Seattle 12, Victoria 3.

Here is what Jack Smith did yesterday afternoon to help accomplish the defeat of the Maple Leafs: In six times up he got five clean hits, two of them doubles.

In batting Smith was closely pressed by "Peggy" Barth, who plucked four bingles, including a double and a triple, in five times up.

Guipni, who has been hitting hard and timely for the past two weeks, one double and a single were his contribution. Brooks also kept up his pace, hitting twice in the pinches.

McIvor, who finished the game from the fourth, after Mails had a good lead, also jumped into the limelight by pitching good ball and driving a homer over the right field fence in the ninth, scoring Morse ahead of him.

Vancouver, July 24.—Vancouver won a great 11 dnnings battle from Spokane yesterday afternoon by a score of 7 to 6. Kelly had one bad inning, when the Indians secured five runs, but after that he was strong.

Score—	R.	H.	E.
Vancouver	7	16	1
Spokane	6	14	4

Batteries—Kelly and Brottem; Clark, Leifer and Brennegan.

Tacoma, July 24.—Tacoma and Aberdeen played a twilight game yesterday evening and the visitors won out by a score of 7 to 6. Harkness was hit hard, but was relieved by Meikle, who held the local safe.

Score—	R.	H.	E.
Aberdeen	7	12	3
Tacoma	6	8	0

Batteries—Harkness, Meikle, Hughes and Vance; House and Stevens.

RED CROSS BASEBALL.

It is likely that a benefit game between the Hawkins Cubs, City league champions, and an all-star nine to be picked by Pinkie Grindle and Jimmie Stephens will be staged at the Royal Athletic park early next month. A challenge has been issued to the Cubs through Messrs. Grindle and Stephens, and it is confidently expected that the City league champions will accept. The entire proceeds of the game will be handed over to the Red Cross, and the plan includes the advance sale of tickets through this organization. It will be necessary to secure the permission of the Amateur Athletic Union to allow the amateurs to compete with the semi-pro.'s and professional players who will comprise the All-Stars, but no difficulty is expected in gaining the necessary permit.

CHICK EVANS IS AGAIN FINALIST

Chicago Golfer Defeats Sawyer in Close Match; Favored for Title

Cleveland, July 24.—History almost repeated itself yesterday when "Chick" Evans, of Chicago, defeated Ned Sawyer, of Chicago, 2 and 1 in the semi-final match in the western amateur golf championship. It was the same score by which Evans won from Sawyer in the semi-finals last year.

To-day the same men who met in the finals at Grand Rapids last year will meet. Jimmy Standish, jr., of Detroit, will be Evans' opponent. He won yesterday over H. P. Bingham, the Mayfield club dark horse, 7 and 6.

Odds are in Evans' favor to repeat, but probably by a less decisive score.

Championships in cup matches were decided as follows:

President's cup—Donald Edwards, Chicago, defeated William Rautenbur, Chicago, 6 and 5.

Vice-president's cup—J. N. McDonald, Chicago, defeated E. S. Armstrong, Los Angles, 3 and 2.

Treasurer's cup—J. C. Crookston, Pittsburg, defeated H. H. Pearce, Pittsburg, 6 and 2.

Secretary's cup—N. P. Davis, Cleveland, defeated N. C. King, Cleveland, 1 up.

Director's cup—C. A. Taylor, Laporte, Ind., defeated C. V. Williams, Chicago, 2 up.

Committees' cup—E. J. Miller, Pittsburg, defeated F. W. Tanner, Toronto, 1 up.

Surprise cup—Jack Frost, San Antonio, defeated A. O. Pearce, Pittsburg, 6 and 5.

The biggest gallery that ever saw a golf match here followed Evans and Sawyer about the course this afternoon. Fully 2,500 people were in the crowd. It was a spectacular match throughout. In but two stages of the game, from the first hole in the morning to the second one, and at the very last did Evans have a lead. At all other times the score favored Sawyer or was even.

Sawyer was leading four up on the tenth hole in the morning round. Evans cut it down to even terms on the seventeenth, but Sawyer took the eighteenth and at the lunch hour was one ahead. He had a good lead in the afternoon, but weakened near the finish. Luck deserted him at the critical stages, while Evans seemed to be favored a bit. But those who have followed "Chick's" previous events, say he never played better than yesterday.

Five times during the match the score was evened up, but the last time Sawyer failed to forge to the front. He had played his best game and lost, and he seemed unable to cope with Evans at the finish. It was a hard match to lose inasmuch as Sawyer has been making a hard fight for the title year after year. He never played a better game than he did yesterday. He was steady at all times.

Time and again both stars holed out with putts of 25 feet or longer, but Sawyer failed on his putting on the sixteenth and seventeenth greens in the afternoon, Evans winning.

RACING CHARTERS CANNOT BE SHIFTED

Toronto, July 24.—The decision of Mr. Justice Middleton at Osgoode Hall has an important bearing on racing. It was sought to open a track at Hamilton on a charter held in London to carry on horse racing at Londoh, Winnipeg and Montreal, with subsidiary powers to hold races throughout the Dominion.

The judgment makes it clear that racing with betting can not be carried out under this charter at any place and every place in Canada. They can race and have betting at London, Winnipeg or Montreal.

It is important in that it makes it plain that franchises cannot be shifted about at the will of the holders; that charters are specific and not blanket affairs. The holders can hold horse races wherever they please, but they can have betting in only the centres named in the charters.

It was first proposed to operate the London held charter at Windsor and then at Hamilton, where a site had been secured. The plan apparently was to operate at various centres under the one charter.

I Am It—They are telling the story of an artist of some reputation who was reproached by a volunteer for not enlisting. He gazed a while at the younger man with impenetrable calm; then, slowly and with grave dignity, he said: "I am that civilisation you are fighting for." The New Age.

AMATEUR UNION IN APPEAL TO YOUTHS FOR NEW RECRUITS

Winnipeg, July 24.—The following appeal has been issued by President Boyd, of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada:

"Kitchener says he requires more men, and we all realize that when he says it he means it.

"This is the reason I am appealing to all those who have no ties to hold them back, and especially the unmarried members of many athletic organizations throughout Canada, to join at once the various corps now being recruited.

"The elimination of cup games at this time would, I feel, give the men an opportunity to realize the gravity of the situation and enable them to put their fighting qualities at the disposal of their king and country.

"The athletes of Canada have done nobly in the fighting ranks of the previous contingents—all honor to them.

"Those of you to whom this appeal reaches display your patriotism by enlisting at once and do your bit."

POP GEERS CREATES SEASON'S RECORD ON THE GRAND CIRCUIT

Cleveland, O., July 24.—Seasons records went by the board yesterday in the final programme of the Grand Circuit racing at North Randall.

Driven by Pop Geers, Napoleon Direct, in the 2.03 pace, went the first heat in 2.02¾ and repeated in the second heat in 2.03 flat, being a season pacing record as well as the fastest two-heat record this year for a pacer.

He had nothing on Margaret Druien. Piloted by Walter Cox, who thereby won his only victory of the week, the mare set a season's trotting record in the 2.05 trot by stepping the first mile in 2.04¼. Returning in the second heat, she went the circle in 2.05¼, giving her the fastest second heat and two-heat race that have been recorded in 1915.

Lou Jennings took the honors in the 2.13 trot, being her second victory of the week. That record is unique in the history of the local track.

Rusticoat had little trouble in the Fasig 3-year-old trotting sweepstakes.

"Suppose," hissed the villain, "suppose our plot should leak out?" "That's all right," said his accomplice, consolingly, "It can't. Don't you remember telling me five minutes ago that it had thickened."

BOSS JOHNSON IS NEW LACROSSE COACH

A.A.U. WILL CARRY FIGHT TO JOE LALLY

Shakeup in Local Twelve Should Revive Interest Amongst Players; President Davidson Talks of Mann Cup

It is likely that Boss Johnson will coach the Victoria Lacrosse club for the balance of the season. The resignation of Coach Bob Springer was announced at last night's meeting of the local twelve, and the players immediately determined to secure the services of the popular goat-tend to handle the team. Johnson has had plenty of experience, he is popular with the men, and his knowledge of lacrosse should come in handy. The Victoria club will not drop out of the game, as has been reported, but will continue in the P. C. A. L. A. The locals have won one game and lost two, both to New Westminster, so that they still have a good chance.

A bumper practice will be held to-morrow at the ball park, at which every player is requested to attend. The selection of a team captain will be made at to-morrow's workout, and it is understood that the choice lies between Stan. Okell and Walter Coutts. Several new players have joined the squad, including Kenny, the former New Westminster home star, who will add considerable strength to the local home field. Kenny played for the Salmonbellies for several seasons, and was regarded as one of the shiftiest amateurs on the coast.

Vancouver, July 24.—The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada will stand solid behind the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse association and the coast league in the battle raging for possession of the Mann cup, with the organized forces on the one side and P. J. Lally, of Cornwall, on the other. Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by Dr. J. G. Davidson, of this city, a member of the national registration committee, and past president of the British Columbia Amateur Athletic union. Dr. Davidson returned a few days ago from an extended trip through the east. While in Toronto he met the officials of the A. A. U. of C., and discussed a number of important matters with them concerning amateur athletics in the Dominion.

A. A. U. Backs Up V. A. C.

Dr. Davidson states that, judging from what one hears in Ontario the Mann cup trustee of Cornwall has Ontario sporting circles believing that everything out this way is professional, and that the Vancouver A. C. team is an out-and-out professional organization. "However, the Amateur Athletic union of Canada has gone very carefully into the matter, and is prepared to stand behind its decision which supports the V. A. C. in its stand, and also the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse association," stated Mr. Davidson yesterday. Continuing, he said: "At present the Mann cup is recognized as the premier trophy in amateur lacrosse, and will be so until the trustees take possession. No organization coming under the jurisdiction of the amateur union will have permission to compete for the trophy if the trustees take it over. Another cup will be substituted."

File More Charges.

Dr. Davidson pointed out that Lally had filed numerous charges, in addition to those concerning Reg. Kendall. These will be taken up by the coast amateur authorities, and an announcement will be made shortly dealing with Lally's actions and the finding of the amateur union. Some interesting developments are expected before any challenges are passed on by the present board of trustees.

CRICKETERS STRENGTHEN REPRESENTATIVE ELEVEN IN INTER-CITY MATCH

Of the Victoria team which played in Vancouver recently H. R. Orr, Albion; R. B. Paten, Garrison; A. Lea, Navy, and Captain Birch, 5th Regiment, are positive of playing in the match against Vancouver on August 7.

The services of V. Westwood, 5th Regiment, will be greatly missed. He had broken several ribs recently, and is now in the Work Point Barracks hospital, where he is likely to remain for some time. In order that a strong side may be placed in the field, some members of the former eleven have requested that other players take their places. How much this action will be appreciated will be seen after the game, as Vancouver is putting forth every effort to bring over a strong eleven.

CURLEY SAYS BOUT WAS NOT FAKED

Denies That Johnson Laid Down to Willard at Havana; Plans Wrestling Clash

Vancouver, July 24.—"Half a hundred of the leading fight critics of America saw the Johnson-Willard fight, and I have yet to see where any of them have made the crack that it was a fake, as has this man who never saw the battle," remarked Jack Curley, the well-known sporting impresario when he was shown the despatch from New York containing the charges of fake as made by the English publication, John Bull, a weekly edited by Horatio Bottomley, M. P.

Curley arrived in the city Thursday, and is registered at the Vancouver hotel. He is on a trip to Alaska and is accompanied by Mrs. Curley. He intends to take a course of treatment at the Sitka Hot Springs for a touch of rheumatism he acquired while promoting the Willard-Johnson fight in Havana, Cuba.

Easy to Tell a Fake.

"Surely if the bout was a fake these fight experts should have been able to discern it," said Curley. "It is the easiest thing in the world to tell when boxers are not doing their best. Willard licked Johnson and did it right and he can do it every day in the week. Willard will never fight another colored man, but if he could get any money for it he would step in the ring with Johnson regularly, for he can beat Jack every time."

Curley figures his next big venture will be a world's championship wrestling bout with Frank Gotch pitted against Joe Stecher, of Dodge, Neb., the farmer boy who threw Charley Cutler at Omaha on July 5 and surprised the wrestling world. Curley has already guaranteed Gotch a $20,000 purse for the bout. He says he has a spot already picked out in the middle west, and if Gotch accepts he will go right ahead. Stecher trains on his own farm, milking cows, hoeing corn and doing other farm work. He is said to possess the strongest pair of limbs in the world, and has earned most of his bouts by employing that familiar crushing scissors hold. Curley figures that Gotch is just where Johnson was, fat and unable to get into his best condition, and thinks Stecher has a wonderful chance to beat the champion.

With him Curley has brought the moving pictures of the Johnson-Willard fight, and he will give a private display of them in the city to-morrow. They are now being shown in four provinces of Canada and Curley is hopeful of having them shown in public in British Columbia. The other provinces which have admitted them are Alberta, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, and Curley says it is altogether probable that Ontario will also admit the films.

NEW BILLIARD PARLOR.

A splendid new billiard room will be opened in the Wilson hotel on Monday under the management of Harris Bros. Six new pocket-billiard tables have been installed, and every care will be taken to see that the patrons are well looked after.

"A Most Valuable Food"

At a time when the preparation of artificial foodstuffs is giving more attention than ever before, and when new forms of easily assimilable fat to take the place of codliver oil are being frequently brought to the notice of the medical professions, it is desirable that some of the older forms of administering natural fats should not be lost sight of. Among natural fats, butter easily takes first place for nutritive value, and when combined with a suitable soluble carbohydrate, a most valuable food is produced.

The BUTTER SCOTCH which Messrs Callard & Bowser (Duke's Road, Euston Road, W. C.) have prepared for fifty years is such an article, which has the great advantage of being palatable, so palatable in fact, that children are more likely to need restraining from excess than any persuading to take it. This BUTTER SCOTCH is stated to contain 11.7 per cent. of fat and 79.3 per cent. of sugar, and the results of an analysis which we have made recently of a specimen substantially confirm these figures; further chemical examination of the fat extracted showed it to be genuine butter fat. This confection can therefore be recommended, not only as a harmless sweetmeat, but also as a very useful addition to the diet in suitable cases.

ANCHORED IN FOG FOR EIGHT HOURS

Canada Maru Was Caught in Dense Bank; Officers Could Not See Bow From Bridge

Caught in a fog which was so thick that the officers on the navigating bridge were unable to see the bow of the ship, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Canada Maru, Capt. Surega, was delayed nearly eight hours in arriving at this port, and failed to reach William Head before sundown last night, which caused her to lose additional time. She dropped anchor off the quarantine station at midnight, and shortly after 5 o'clock this morning Dr. Nelson granted her pratique, and she headed for the outer docks.

At 6 o'clock yesterday morning when the Canada was running down the west coast of Vancouver island, she slipped into a fog bank, which increased in density as the ship progressed. After steaming for an hour Capt. Surega decided to drop anchor, as he was unable to see past the bow of his ship, and at times even this was obscured. She stopped 15 miles to the westward of Barkley Sound, and her mudhook took hold in 42 fathoms of water. The Canada lay there with her whistle sounding at regulation intervals until 2.40 o'clock in the afternoon, when a lift was observed, and Capt. Surega decided to take advantage of it. The ship steamed cautiously, and entered the Strait without any difficulty.

Good Weather on Pacific.

Splendid weather was encountered by the Canada Maru from Yokohama until the coast of this island was sighted. The temperature during the passage never dropped below 59 degrees. The ocean itself seemed too lazy to disturb itself. For one week foggy weather was encountered at nights, but the days were very clear.

The Canada brought in a full cargo of Oriental merchandise, and discharged about 200 tons of freight. Her shipment of silk only amounted to $250,000. She has heavy consignment of tea, hemp, porcelain, provisions and rice.

Fifteen passengers disembarked at this port.

The Canada proceeded to Seattle at 10.30 o'clock.

WELL-KNOWN VESSEL COMPLETES TRIP TO NEW YORK

S. S. WELLINGTON

Telegrams were received this morning announcing the arrival of the Wellington at New York on Thursday. The former collier left here on June 19, loaded with 1,250,000 feet of lumber, and made the passage via the canal in 33 days, which is fairly smart for her. This is the longest voyage the Wellington has made in many years. She had been lying idle at Esquimalt for several years and was brought out of retirement owing to the demand for tonnage and the high rates offered. The Wellington will return to this coast immediately she has discharged.

STEAMED 16.8 KNOTS ON HER TRIAL TRIPS

Hawaii Maru Performed Admirably; is Preparing for First Pacific Trip

During her trial trips conducted at Kobe, Japan, on July 4, the new Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Hawaii Maru, attained an hour over a measured course. Capt. Saito, formerly master of the steamship Seattle Maru, was in command of the ship, and the head officials of the company and a number of other influential Japanese were on board.

Capt. Surega, master of the liner Canada Maru, which was in port today, brought the news of the trial trips of the big liner. The Hawaii, with her sister ship the Manila Maru, will be the fastest Japanese steamship in the trans-Pacific trade, and will have the edge on the most of the Blue Funnel liners and the Monteagle, of the C. P. R. fleet. The Hawaii is to make the run from Yokohama in thirteen days, which is from two to three days faster than the time made by any of the Japanese vessels now operating.

Schedule Altered.

According to the schedule issued by the O. S. K., the Hawaii was scheduled to leave Yokohama for Hongkong on July 14. Owing to delays in the completion of the ship, the liner will not go to the British possession, but will steam direct from Yokohama for Victoria on August 19, arriving here on the last day of that month. The Manila Maru will not be ready for service until late in September, and she will not arrive here until November 9.

The new boats will only have accommodation for nine saloon passengers, but will carry about 250 steerage. They will carry close on to 10,000 tons of freight and will maintain an average speed during their passages of nearly 14 knots an hour. The Japanese have found that a vessel with limited passenger accommodation, hugh spaces for cargo and fair speed is the most successful for the trans-Pacific trade.

The Osaka line will use seven vessels in the trade. The Panama Maru is to be dropped following the appearance of the two new ships, but the company has decided to retain the Seattle Maru in this service, owing to the tremendous cargo offerings.

CHICAGO'S RICH CARGO

The Japanese steamer Chicago Maru, of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, steamed from Victoria at 5.30 p.m. yesterday, bound for ports in the Orient. The vessel's cargo is valued at $661,862, and consists of 6,065 bales of cotton valued at $353,589, a shipment of 34,863 pairs of shoes valued at $48,734 for the Philippine islands, including many pairs of tennis shoes and rubber-soled Oxfords; 29,689 sacks of flour valued at $49,965, 211 cases of cotton thread valued at $24,957, and shipments of electrical machinery, steel bars and structural material.

SAID GERMANS WANT TO TIE UP SHIPPING

Longshoremen Association's Official Makes Statement; Employers' Reply

Considerable interest has been aroused on this coast through the statements made at a recent meeting of the San Francisco Labor Council by John Kean, vice-president of the International Longshoremen's association. He is quoted as making the following remarks:

"For some time past representatives of the German government have been working secretly to bring about a strike of longshoremen in this country, in the hope that they could cripple shipping and terminate the European war in their favor within a month. Vast sums of money, amounting to millions of dollars, have been offered by representatives of the German government in an effort to accomplish their purpose.

"Thus far the representatives of the German government have failed to induce the longshoremen to call a strike. Now, however, we have reason to believe that pressure is being brought to bear upon the shipowners to lock out the longshoremen and other maritime workers, in order to accomplish the designs of representatives of the German government.

"For some time past here on the Pacific coast the longshoremen have been negotiating a new working agreement and wage scale. It is significant that matters which some time ago we thought could be adjusted without any trouble are now being made the bone of contention. The shipowners have recently assumed a belligerent attitude, and we have reason to believe it is due to the influence of the representatives of the German government, who, failing to bring on a strike of the longshoremen, are now bending every energy to precipitate a lockout.

"The situation is a serious one. The United States government for a month past has had its inspectors on the Pacific coast watching the situation. The Pacific district council of the International Longshoremen's association will hold a convention here on July 26, when the matter will be gone into in detail, and an effort made to adjust the differences with the shipowners. The crisis is near at hand, and I do not know what the outcome will be."

Employers' Position.

These remarks, which the Waterfront Employers' union, of Seattle, consider misleading to the longshoremen themselves, have caused the officials of the union to make a statement. J. S. Gibson, president of the union, has forwarded the following to the Times:

"Early in March of this year there was a strike of the longshoremen called at Vancouver, B. C., and very soon afterwards at a meeting of the district officers of the International Longshoremen's association, held in this city, a general boycott was declared on the Pacific coast against all vessels going to or coming from British Columbia ports, and within a few days after putting this boycott into effect the local union at Seattle declared a general strike affecting all shipping.

"It was intimated at that time that there was some subtile influence being used among the longshoremen encouraging their action. As a matter of fact, this rumor was originated by officials of the International Longshoremen's association. It is interesting to note Mr. Kean's public declaration along these lines, but we do not hesitate to say that this influence has now been switched from the longshoremen to the employers, is far fetched; in fact, absolutely ridiculous. Mr. Kean does not pay the employees a very high compliment if he thinks they can be made to believe that the employers could be influenced into any action which would tend to interfere with the movement of shipping. The employers have very little direct interest in the European war, but they, and the port of Seattle, and other ports on the Pacific coast are virtually interested in the movement of shipping, and any effort on the part of either belligerent to interfere with this movement would meet with the strongest opposition of employers of longshore labor.

"Mr. Kean's intimation that there is a probability of a lockout of employees by the employers is absolutely untrue and misleading. The employers held daily conferences with representatives of the International Longshoremen's association in Seattle from June 7 up to and including July 12, and at those conferences all of the points affecting the mutual interests of the employers and employees were discussed in a friendly spirit. The employees made certain demands for increased wages and closed shop conditions. We demonstrated to them very clearly and forcibly that business and economic conditions were such, at the present time, as not to warrant or justify the adding of any burdens to the shipping interests. There was no reason whatever for disturbing working conditions on Puget Sound as they were most harmonious, and there was also no reason why the rates of wages should be increased. We did, however, agree to a substantial increase in the rates of wages of 12 per cent. on merchandise shipments.

"We note that Mr. Rosenthal, a former vice-president of the San Francisco labor council, in reply to Mr. Kean, says:

"'If by a strike of the longshoremen the European war, with its horrible slaughter of millions of wage-earners, could be brought to an end within a month, I don't know but it would be a good thing to call the strike.'

"Mr. Rosenthal certainly cannot think that a strike of the longshoremen will have very much influence in bringing this war to a close. There are too many idle men now clashoring for work to permit the paralyzing of shipping by a strike of longshoremen, especially where wages paid for longshore labor are as high as they now are on the Pacific coast."

BATTLESHIP CONTEST.

Washington, July 24.—The Nebraska won the American navy's battleship engineering efficiency contest for the year ending June 30, according to an announcement to-day at the navy department. She stood first in engineering the year before, and already carries a big "E" on her funnel to denote the achievement.

Mr. Deal, the undertaker, was never at a loss for an answer when anyone attempted to poke fun at him or his profession. One day a would-be wit, meeting him, remarked—"Yours must be a gruesome business, Mr. Deal. I suppose you undertakers never look at a man without wishing him dead?" "You are mistaken," replied the undertaker. "I know some people whom I would be perfectly willing to bury alive!"

BREEDING FOXES.

There are several kinds of foxes. To most people the common red fox, although it is far less common than it was a few years ago, is still an object of only mild interest. Sportsmen and fur dealers would be no more likely to invest money in raising red foxes than poultrymen would be to go out of business because such animals make occasional raids on chicken-yards. The plebeian fox has however a patrician cousin that is so highly esteemed that men have invested millions of dollars in America in the business of getting its fur.

That fox is the silver or black fox—furriers class as "silver" all shades from light gray to lustrous black. For centuries persons of great wealth have used this fur, with the result that its value has become almost as fully standardized as that of diamonds. Prices range from eighty to one hundred pounds for a light silver pelt to more than six hundred pounds for a perfect black specimen. No other fur-bearing animal is so valuable.

So rare is this fox in its wild state that men have established ranches in order to try to domesticate it. On Prince Edward Island, where the climate and other conditions are favorable, the experiments of this kind have been successful enough to attract wide interest. The industry began on the island in a small way about twenty years ago, and within the past two or three years has grown to an amazing extent. It is estimated that Prince Edward Island now has fifty fox-ranches of a total value of eight hundred thousand pounds. Besides these ranches there are two or three hundred other places on the island where a few pairs of foxes are kept.

How great the demand is for the foxes for breeding purposes can be judged from the fact that no less than three thousand pounds was recently paid for a young pair of pure blacks. The little animals are actually worth their weight in gold. In fact, the large rewards that the industry holds out have brought on a fever of speculation that has spread to other Canadian provinces and to places in the United States.

The society woman who had just instituted divorce proceedings was discussing her case with a friend. "I don't think I know this lawyer who is going to represent you," observed the visitor, running over the name in her mind. "Oh, you must know him," returned the hostess with animation. "Don't you remember the good-looking fellow who sang 'O Perfect Love' at my wedding?"

NOTICE OF CHANGE OF NAME.

And I further give notice that by a Deed Poll dated the twenty-second day of July, 1915, duly executed and attested, I renounced the said surname of Bergmann and declared that I had assumed and adopted upon all occasions and for all purposes whatsoever the name of Jeanneret instead of the name of Bergmann.

LETTER FROM FRANCE.

Victoria Soldier Writes of Marvellous Escape Under Fire; In Trenches Seventeen Days.

The following is an extract from a letter received by Mrs. Herbert Kent from a Victoria soldier now fighting in the trenches in Northern France:

"We were in action seventeen days at Ypres; just got there in time for the big scrap. You can bet it was some baptism of fire. Our casualties were ten wounded, one of whom died lately, but the 2nd, who were with us, were not so lucky; they lost something like four killed and fifteen wounded. My sergeant got a crack on the head, so I have got my promotion and am now sporting the third stripe. Some of the escapes were simply marvellous. One chap had his cap knocked off his head and another had the heel shot off his boot. We had the dugout behind our gun, and one day when they were paying particular attention to us, a shell skimmed over the gun and took the roof off the dugout. No one hurt although there were some of us on the gun, and some in the dugout. Another coal-box landed just under the muzzle of the gun, and blew dirt and sandbags all over everything in sight. The way a big shell can cut down a tree is something to behold; it will clip off a tree three feet thick just like a stick of celery. You remember S. . . W.? He was blown to bits a week or two ago, and his team along with him; so I guess a big chap has as much chance as a small one. In one of the other batteries a shell landed right on the trail of a gun, and put the whole crew out of action. I was pretty close to it myself when I had a poor boy hit by my side. He was still alive when I picked him up. He only lasted a few minutes, but it made me pretty shaky for a couple of days.

"On one occasion we were firing steadily for two days and a night with hardly a pause, each crew doing two hours on and two off. When I was finished we were all so deaf that we had to yell to make each other hear. It was a lovely sensation lying in the dugout at night listening to the shells coming over and hitting the ground with a thud that shook everything, and wondering when one was going to come through on top of us. We are now further down the line in a soft spot for a short rest, but we expect another move in a day or two. Just now we are in a very funny position, our guns being in Belgium and our horses in France, with less than half a mile between."

TEACHERS IN COUNTRY

Rural Science Students at Summer School Visited Prospect Lake This Morning.

This morning a big class of rural science students in connection with the Teachers' Summer school went out to Prospect lake in charge of H. K. R. Robinson, and other members of the provincial forestry department. The expedition proved instructive and enjoyable, many practical observations being made in connection with forestry conservation and cultivation.

Yesterday 109 students in the Domestic Science course visited Raper's dairy farm, Burnside road, the time being spent profitably. This morning Prof. Klinck lectured to a special class on the question of "Crop Improvement," being succeeded by R. M. Winslow, provincial horticulturist, who spoke on a different phase of the same subject.

Rev. A. J. Frost, D. D., dean of the Northwestern Bible School of Minneapolis, will come to Victoria next Saturday and will preach in the Tabernacle Baptist church the Sunday following. It is expected that he will give a series of Bible readings during the week.

ANNUAL REPORT OF BOARD OF TRADE

Some Fine Illustrations Are Included; Review of Lumber Situation

The annual report of the Victoria board of trade, the thirty-sixth to be issued, deals with the development of the southern portion of the island commercially, and makes special reference to the activities in and around Victoria.

Mr. Elworthy has issued on this occasion a most comprehensive booklet, including some new illustrations in addition to those which are naturally expected in any book having reference to Victoria affairs. The picture of Mr. Van Aarst's bulb farm on the Wilkinson road and that of the salmon traps are particularly good. Several typical scenes of industry around Victoria are also shown.

Speaking of the lumber industry, which means so much to the prosperity of the island, the following extract from the report may be quoted with advantage:

"This board's special committee have done some good work in endeavoring to bring about prosperous conditions, and may be summarized as follows: A commencement was made by investigating the possibility of a more general use of B. C. lumber in India. It was advanced that Douglas fir, cedar and spruce are particularly suitable for use in the tropics. The resin contained in the two former is noxious to white ants, and spruce, being practically unaffected by climatic change, would be useful in joinery, doors, windows, frames, etc. Suggestions for the development of this trade were made to the Hon. W. R. Ross, minister of lands, who was favorably impressed, and promised support, which is now progressing.

"A review of the lumber situation generally was next submitted in the form of a memorial to the Hon. Sir George E. Foster, minister of trade and commerce, who complimented the board on the able presentation of the case, and promised all possible assistance.

"The lieutenant-governor-in-council was then memorialized for a grant of $25,000, together with a request to ask the Dominion government for a similar sum, in aid of exploiting new markets for B. C. timber. Mr. G. H. Barnard, M. P., was also interviewed, and asked to use his influence with the Dominion government.

"The provincial legislature in passing the estimates of 1915-16 included the sum of $50,000 in aid of the lumber industry. The Dominion government, however, could not see their way to act as desired, but through Mr. Barnard and Mr. Green, members of parliament, asked this board of trade to join with the British Columbia Shingle Manufacturers' association in nominating a commissioner to Australia to look into the possibilities of the lumber trade between Canada and the Commonwealth. The nomination and appointment of Mr. H. R. MacMillan, chief forester of B. C., followed, and he is now embarked on a much more comprehensive plan of activity than was at first contemplated.

"There is much work along these lines remaining to be done, and the opinion cannot be too strongly impressed upon the mill operators and timber lease holders that it is incumbent upon them to show their appreciation of what the Dominion and provincial governments are doing on their behalf. It would be well to remember that control of one of the principal natural resources of the province carries with it obligations beyond self interest. This board, while memorializing the provincial government for a grant in aid of the lumber industry, suggested that such aid should be supplemented by a contribution of $25,000 from the lumbermen, and such contribution, with the appointment of a strong commission to expend the funds to the best advantage, would go far towards inspiring confidence that this business will be attacked in a wholehearted manner."

The usual appendices are included giving up-to-date information on local industries, and on agriculture, together with statistics.

ADMIRALTY PRODUCES SUBMARINE-DESTROYER

LIEUT.-ENG. A. GORDON.

While the outside world has been wondering what type of ship or device the British admiralty would produce to destroy the submarine menace, the experts have produced a submarine-destroyer, which probably by this time is darting about off the Scilly islands and in the Irish channel. It is quite likely that the ineffectiveness of the German divers during the past eight days has been caused by the new craft.

Word that a new type of craft had been produced was learned through the appointment of Lieut.-Eng. A. Gordon, formerly employed on steamers in the B. C. coast service, to superintend the construction of the hull and machinery of H. M. S. Mallow. No details as to her type and apparatus for the destruction of submarines is being divulged. The Mallow is expected to be launched this month.

Lieut.-Eng. Gordon was serving on H. M. S. Jupiter, a battleship, which throughout the winter was used as an ice-breaker at Archangel, keeping the port free.

MAGISTRATE HEARS AUTOMOBILE CASES

Two Are Fined for Speeding; Two Other Charges Are Dismissed

In the police court this morning Magistrate Jay had before him four automobile cases, in which three defendants were charged with speeding, and one with having had the number plate on the back of his machine partly covered. There were two convictions and two of the charges were dismissed.

J. McHardy, who said he had driven an automobile for a long time and had covered 14,000 miles without having been called before the police magistrate for an infraction of the motor laws, was charged with speeding on the night of July 17 on Government street. James Kennedy, who was the informant, was driving a jitney at the time when the offence occurred, and said that while he was making fifteen miles an hour McHardy's machine rushed by him and struck his car in doing so. Mr. McHardy's car, said the witness, tipped up and then righted itself, and marks were found on the jitney afterwards showing where the car had struck. There were passengers in the car, and they testified to-day to the facts as related by the informant.

There were three defence witnesses who did not think the speed reached by the defendant had been beyond the limit allowed by the law. One of them, however, said that Mr. McHardy had driven to Fraser street, Esquimalt, and on the way they had stopped to look at a cart on the roadside which had had an accident. One of the informant's witnesses said when Mr. Kennedy's car got to Head street the other car passed them on the way back towards the city. The magistrate considered the defendant must have been speeding to have made the distance and be on the return. Therefore he gned him $10.

In the case of Fred Tubman the weight of evidence was against the prosecution, and the case was dismissed. The defendant was charged with turning a corner at thirty miles an hour, and the only evidence to that effect was that of the informing police constable. Three young men who were in the car said the defendant had not exceeded the limit, and the magistrate said he could not disregard the sworn testimony of three witnesses.

One defendant, J. McOrmond, admitted he had been going nineteen miles an hour. He had a true speedometer which registered that speed, and as there were no special circumstances in the case, the magistrate said a fine of $5 would be sufficient. Defendant said he had been driving four years, and it was the first time he had been summoned.

J. J. Galbraith, charged with having covered his number plate slightly with a tire on the back of the car said the constable had mentioned the matter to him and he had removed the tire the same day and properly displayed the number as required. The magistrate did not consider it a serious matter and dismissed the case.

H.M.S. KENT OFFICER INTERRED WITH HONORS

Funeral of Eng.-Lieut. Foreman Held This Morning; Many Present

The remains of the late Eng.-Lieut. Victor O. Foreman, of H. M. S. Kent, were laid to rest this morning in the naval cemetery, Esquimalt. The Rev. W. Baugh Allen, naval chaplain, officiated at the services, the casket being borne from the Marine hospital to the church on a gun-carriage. Full honors were accorded the dead sailor, the procession being headed by a firing party in charge of an escort in command of Lieut. Wingate. After this came the band of the Fifth Regiment, and then the gun-carriage drawn by a detachment of the boys.

The Esquimalt naval station was well represented, among those present being Admiral Storey, R. N.; Commander Hose, R. N.; Commander Shenton, R. N.; Lieut.-Com. Holme, Eng.-Com. Jenkins, Staff Sec. Lambert, and Messrs. Haynes, King and Brown. There was also a detachment of the men from the naval barracks.

Many beautiful floral designs covered the casket and testified to the sympathetic interest taken in the young officer from H. M. S. Kent. Among the flowers were wreaths from the following: The Ladies' Guild of the Connaught Seamen's Institute; Mrs. Murray Thain and Miss Hiscocks (for his sister); the captain and wardroom officers of H. M. C. S. Rainbow; petty officers, H. M. C. S. Rainbow; chief petty officers H. M. C. S. Rainbow; the Royal Navy and marines; Old Comrades' association; stokers of H. M. C. S. Rainbow, and others.

The mourners included Lieut. Henson, Mrs. Thomson (president of the Ladies' Guild of the Seamen's Institute), and Mrs. Murray Thain (representing the deceased's sister); Mrs. Hiscocks, representing the Ladies' Guild; and T. Wright Hill, secretary and port missionary, representing the Connaught Seamen's Institute.

In addition to the usual impressive Church of England burial service Rev. Baugh Allen gave a short address, in the course of which he referred to the gallant achievements of the Kent.

Interment was in the naval cemetery, Esquimalt, and the pallbearers were as follows: Lieuts. Walker, Bridge, Pitts, Richardson, Brown, Lifton and Edwards.

DETACHMENTS LEAVE FOR TRAINING CAMP

Quotas for 62nd Battalion Will Join Unit at Vernon

The quotas of one hundred men each from the 88th Fusiliers and 50th Gordon Highland regiments left by the 3 o'clock boat this afternoon for Vernon, where they will join the 62nd regiment in the military training camp. Captain Langley, formerly of the 5th regiment, now of the 62nd battalion, took charge of the two detachments, the companies being in charge of Lieut. Scharff and Lieut. Lane respectively.

Many people apprised of the departure of the men were out to give them a good send-off, the ruffle of the drums and sound of the pipes of the Fusiliers band, heading the 88th, and the Gordon Highlanders' band, heading the detachment from the 50th, announcing their coming. Major Rous Cullin, O. C., and the 88th regiment and Major Forythe, O. C., and the 50th regiment marched in from the Willows as an escort for the men, the procession being headed by Major Henniker and the squadron of Victoria Independent Horse. In neither case were the detachments for the 62nd in uniform, but they marched well, and were given enthusiastic cheers as they passed down Fort and Government, the lines relieved by the flags which the men carried.

Lieut.-Col. Hulme, who has been given command of the battalion, is supposed to be leaving Vancouver to-day also for the Vernon training camp, with the rest of the officers for the new unit for overseas service.

Peter Jones advertised for an office boy the other day. There weren't any replies that amounted to anything till a smutty-faced urchin presented himself just at the hour when he should not have applied. "What do you want?" growled Peter. The child answered: "I don't suppose you don't know about no man that don't want to engage no feller to do no work nor nothing for him, do you? Or don't you?" "Yes," replied Mr. Jones. "I don't."

WILL SUBMIT LIST OF PAYMENTS MADE

School Board Has High School Schedule Ready; Hours of Cluster Lighting

In order to present a statement to the city council on Monday, the school board will meet in the afternoon. This statement will set out the amount spent by the board in educating at the city high school the children of parents residing in outside municipalities. The procedure requires the municipal council to forward this return to the neighboring municipalities for collection.

On account of the great increase in the attendance in the High school last August, the per capita cost per pupil has materially fallen, and therefore the actual amount to be charged will be less than had the principle been inaugurated a year ago.

Alderman Todd, chairman of the electric light committee, will move the following resolution: "That in future each cluster of electric lights on every alternate electric light standard on all of the cluster lighted streets in this city be turned off on every day of the week at ten p. m., except on Saturdays and the day preceding a statutory legal holiday, when such alternative light shall be extinguished at 11 p. m." This action is taken at the request of Retail Merchants' association.

Amendment of statute regulating shops' hours has enabled the barbers to ask for the passage of an early closing by-law affecting the trades in the city. Till the act was amended at the last session of the legislature, it was impossible for barbers to be treated like other trades in regard to closing hours.

An amendment of the parks by-law will be moved, and a by-law will be introduced to alter the name of a portion of Esquimalt street, to conform with Bay street, of which it is a part.

There is also a certain amount of routine business.

CROWN LINER HERE WITH NEW RECORD

Seville in From United Kingdom After a Passage of Twenty-Nine Days

Establishing a new record for the passage between the United Kingdom and Victoria, the Harrison liner, Crown of Seville, warped alongside the outer docks this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The big twin-mast ship was just 29 days completing the voyage. This mark has never been approached by any other vessel operating in the trade. Favorable weather assisted the smart vessel to hang up a record which looks good enough to stand for some time.

The Seville is the ship which caused considerable interest here before she finally left the old country. The agents here were informed that she would sail from Glasgow on a certain date. Then they were notified that the admiralty had use for her, and finally came word that she would be placed on berth for this coast. She succeeded in steaming through the war zone without sighting any German submarines. She stopped at San Pedro and San Francisco to discharge parts of her cargo.

Has Pipe for Waterworks.

While the Seville is berthed here she will discharge 500 tons of cargo, including 300 tons of water-pipe for the Saanich municipality. Up to the time of going to press, it was not known whether the ship would start working her cargo to-day, or would lie here until Monday morning and then set to.

The Crown of Seville is being followed to Victoria by the steamship Discoverer and Harold Cove, local agent of the line, informs the Times, that the Benefactor has been appointed to succeed the Discoverer.

WHITE SOX HAVE FIRST CLAIM ON OAKLAND SLUGGER

Chicago, July 24.—The Chicago Americans have first claim on the services of Jack Ness, first baseman of the Oakland club, who has established a new world's batting record.

President Comiskey, of the Chicago club, said to-day that he held a blanket option on the Pacific Coast league team in turn for players he leased to that club. Comiskey also is watching the work of Jimmy Johnston, who is second to Ness among the Coast league batters. Ness' performance of hitting safely in forty-nine consecutive games has attracted the attention of all major league scouts.

Chicago, July 24.—New York-Chicago American league and Baltimore-Chicago Federal league ball games postponed account Eastland disaster.

HUNS ARE REPULSED IN REGION OF VOSGES

Paris, July 24.—Repulse of German attacks in the Vosges and continued fighting in the region, were the only activities chronicled in to-day's communique from the French war office.

TAGALOGS THREATEN REVOLT.

Manila, July 24.—The Tagalogs of Luzon threaten a new insurrection. Carriaga, Lieut. Ricarte and one of the leaders of the Christmas eve revolt have been spurring it on. Dismasalang, the secret society of Tagalogs, is seething with activity. Vigorous measures are being taken to forestall the impending insurrection.

ROUMANIA LIKELY TO JOIN THE ALLIES

In Paris the Impression Grows That This is Imminent

Paris, July 24.—The impression is spreading here that Roumania is about to join the allies, as was predicted last week in financial circles. Gustave Herve writes in a more confident tone than for several weeks. He suggests that, in view of a probable Roumanian note and other favorable circumstances in the east, a winter campaign will perhaps be unnecessary.

Premier Asquith's statement that Roumania is likely to join the allies confirms the hopes based on the Roumanian refusal to let Turkey's munitions pass.

Referring to the latter point, the Petit Parisien's Bucharest correspondent wires that a Roumanian foreign official, to whom the German diplomatic agents insisted that Germany should send munitions through Roumania, whether the latter were willing or not, replied:

"If you are so determined to pass munitions to Constantinople why don't you do it through Servia, with whom you are at war?"

London, July 24.—A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Athens says:

"It is learned from a Bulgarian diplomatic source that Germany recently urged Bulgaria to occupy the valley of the Timok, in Serbian territory, which would establish direct communication by the Danube between Austria and Bulgaria. The Bulgarian government refused."

WAR OF ASSERTION OF DEMOCRATIC RIGHT

French Educationist Gives His Views of Conflict in Seattle.

Seattle, July 24.—"This is a war of the world for the right to live under a democratic form of government, and the allies will eventually achieve this victory of right over wrong. There will never be freedom from danger in Europe until Germany is forcibly returned to the separate state system as she was half a century ago."

These views sum up the opinion of the purpose and end of the war in Europe held by Emile Hovelaque, inspector-general of public instruction for France, who left Seattle to-day for Vancouver, B. C., after a day spent here. M. Hovelaque acted as special representative for France at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

France, M. Hovelaque declares, is one vast hospital and has borne the brunt of the fighting since the war started, but is not complaining and will never make peace until Germany is defeated. The entire nation, he says, is confident of ultimate victory.

GERMAN-AMERICAN COMMENT ON NOTE

Chicago Paper Thinks That Fatherland's Only Answer is War.

Chicago, July 24.—The Illinois Staats Zeitung, Chicago's German morning newspaper, prints to-day an editorial on President Wilson's latest note to Germany. The Staats Zeitung says: "Germany can never submit to the tone of it and will, much as we are sorry for it, find no other answer than the breaking off of diplomatic relations. We, as well as the German government, know fully that with such a step she fulfills not only the wish of this government, but also that of England, and will create a very painful situation for German-Americans.

"The note shows the president will break with Germany at all hazards. He should first ask the people of the United States if they are satisfied to be driven into war. The note is unworthy of the republic. We hope Germany will not blame the people for the present government's action."

MOTOR TURNS TURTLE

Fernie Residents Injured in Accident Last Night; Driver Escapes.

Fernie, B. C., July 24.—While going up the steep grade near the brewery here last night an auto driven by Len Hunnable, with Mrs. Terris and two daughters and Miss Drummond in the car, slid off the grade when Hunnable tried to pass a wagon and turned turtle, making a wreck of itself.

Mrs. Terris and the young ladies were slightly injured. Hunnable escaped injury by jumping.

Miss Turner, West Fernie, was the victim of a bicycle runaway on the hill leading to the river yesterday. She was thrown from the wheel but escaped with slight injuries.

SUCCESS OF FIRST LOAN IN NEW YORK

Ottawa, July 24.—The minister of finance, referring to the forty million New York loan, says:

"I am much gratified at the result of the issue. As our first offering in New York it was most important that it should be favorably received. More than the conspicuous success of the loan the Canadian people will appreciate the cordial feeling of international goodwill, of which it is the expression. The liberal oversubscription is a fine compliment to the credit of the Dominion, and will have an important stimulating effect upon the market for all Canadian securities."

PATRIOTIC DEMONSTRATION

Anniversary of War to Be Observed by Local Red Cross Society With Mass Meeting.

The committee of the Victoria and District Branch of the Canadian Red Cross society has arranged to keep the date of the anniversary of the war by holding a patriotic demonstration and mass meeting in front of the parliament buildings and the Empress hotel from 8 to 10.30 p.m. Three military bands will be in attendance, and there will be speeches and a general collection for the funds of the Red Cross. The committee believe that there can be no better way of keeping this anniversary than by making an appeal for future self-denial and sacrifice.

The appeal of the Red Cross society on this occasion is also a direct incentive to recruiting, since every man knows that whenever he is disabled he comes under its direct care, and that every facility is afforded towards his comforts and ultimate recovery. The work among the sick and wounded must continue to increase before hostilities are over, and will remain a necessity for many months after these are ended.

All patriots and workers will desire on the anniversary of the day of the nation's call to arms to have an opportunity to reaffirm their loyalty to the empire, and to reconsecrate themselves to its constant service.

ARMY RANK FOR BRITISH WOMEN

Domestic Science Teachers Will Instruct Soldiers in Camp Cookery

London, July 24.—Next week will see an innovation in military methods, the recognition of women to the extent of giving them the rank of non-commissioned officers.

Several hundred London school teachers, whose specialty is instruction in domestic arts, are to spend their holidays in giving lessons in cookery in the camps of Britain's new armies. These women will receive the temporary rank of corporal and sergeant.

The initiative was taken as a result of reports of waste in the camps. The war office arranged for one hundred women to begin work next week, and, if the results are good, the scheme will be largely augmented.

NATIONAL DEFENCE IS GIVING CONCERN

Wilson Will Confer With the Secretaries of Navy and of War.

Washington, July 24.—Formal announcement was made at the White House to-day that President Wilson on his return to Washington will confer with Secretaries Garrison and Daniels on a programme for national defence.

The president has written to the heads of war and naval departments for reports on the subject, pointing out the necessity for working out plans for increasing the efficiency of the military arm of the government.

JOINS AERIAL SCOUTS.

New York, July 24.—Viscount Tiverton, son of the Earl of Halsbury, has joined the aerial scouting corps attached to the British navy, and has left for the front, according to a letter received to-day from Lady Tiverton by her mother, Lady Duff-Gordon, who is spending the summer in this country. Eight years ago Lord Tiverton married Esme Wallace, daughter of Lady Duff-Gordon. They have two children.

RAMBLER CARIBOO AND SNOWSTORM GO HIGHER

Lucky Jim Back to .08c. Again and Granby Depreciates

The local market had an easing tendency to-day, which was induced by further reactions in Lucky Jim and Granby. The former dropped back to the eight-cent level and Granby receded two full points on entire lack of buying impulses. The variableness in Lucky Jim since 11c. was reached rises out of discussion as to the merits or demerits of the recent big gain in the stock price. As it is, not much selling is seen and fluctuations are orderly.

Snowstorm and Rambler Cariboo stood out from the rest of the list by going higher. Not much stock is changing hands in either issue, but buyers are persistently pushing their requirements.

GOOD ADVANCES SCORED AND MAINTAINED TO-DAY

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)

Chicago, July 24.—Although weather conditions over winter wheat belt were reported satisfactory, the forecast of showers created nervousness on the part of the short interest. It is pretty generally conceded that even if conditions permit of a heavy run of new wheat to market between now and the first of August, it will all be wanted at good premiums for the reason that the demand for shipment still seems to be limited only by the amount that is available and offered. There still exists a speculative short interest in the July, and it will not be long now before they may find their position untenable. Black rust reports from scattered sections in northwest, coupled with the strong cash situation, gave a broad buying power throughout the session, with the result that further good advances were secured and maintained.

Montreal, July 24.—The market continued in a more active state again today. Can. Car being again the feature of the session. Opening at 90, it advanced on heavy trading to 100, closing at 96½, a gain of 6¾ points for the day. The market presented a more encouraging appearance the past few sessions, traders apparently entering the market more freely. The rapid advance in some issues demonstrated how bare the market is of floating stock. The market closed firm.

BETHLEHEM STEEL TO NEW HIGH LEVEL

Market Had Strong Tendency for Session and Fairly Active

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)

New York, July 24.—The session was moderately active and had a strong undertone. The war stocks gathered more vim and vigor. However, fanciful tales about extremely large profits are not being followed in the blind fashion which recently attended the circulation of such advices. Further bullish talk is heard on Westinghouse and the buying of the issue has been good. Bethlehem Steel made a new high at 200.

So far as the American note to Germany was concerned, it was the general impression among traders that it would meet with a favorable reception in official quarters, and that in any case an answer would not be forthcoming for some time. From a stock market viewpoint, therefore, the effect was moderately bullish.

ABATTOIR QUESTION GOES TO COMMITTEE

City Council Hears Deputation From Local Council of Women on Subject

After hearing a deputation from the Local Council of Women, composed of Mrs. J. D. Gordon, Mrs. R. S. Day, Mrs. A. E. McPhillips, Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Fowkes (the last named acting-president of the Household league), the city council in committee yesterday afternoon referred the whole question of an abattoir to the legislative and health committees. With the deputation was the provincial livestock commissioner, and Inspectors Lancaster and Howes.

Alderman Porter, the chairman of the committee, said the council had not power to build an abattoir. Alderman McNeill thought the matter was one which deserved the attention of the aldermen, and then the legislative and financial obstacles would be removed by the time the council was in a position to proceed with construction.

The mayor admitted that his attitude to the question had greatly changed of late, and he was convinced of the necessity of the institution now.

Alderman Todd stated that he should strongly support the proposal when the time was ripe, because of the encouragement it would give to the farmers of the district to raise stock for the local market, and for general consumption.

Alderman Bell foresaw that if only twenty per cent. of the meat used in Victoria came from local sources, it would be necessary to bring all the slaughtermen into line to use it, or else the abattoir would have to be maintained from the rates.

Alderman Fullerton observed that the only powers held by the municipality now were those affecting the inspection of slaughter houses.

The mayor stated that when the time came for building an abattoir he thought the adjoining municipalities should co-operate in meeting the expense.

In the course of her remarks, Mrs. Gordon, who headed the deputation, said: "We find that bovine tuberculosis is prevalent in the districts which supply beef to the city, and it has been proved by repeated tests that the disease in animals is transmitted to human beings. I am informed by competent authorities that the inspection of meats before they are cooled and have passed through the hands of skilful trimmers is anything but satisfactory, the traces of disease being very difficult to detect under such circumstances."

After alluding to the reduction in infection by the process of cooking, and the possibilities of contamination existing, Mrs. Gordon proceeded that with the waste of life in Europe greater care should be taken to preserve it here. "Your duty," she said, "to the citizens who have given you these powers demands that life should be specially safeguarded now, when so many thousands of the white races are daily sacrificed. As matters are here at present there is nothing to prevent a farmer from slaughtering his diseased animals, and exposing the flesh for sale in the city. The cheaper the meat is the more readily will it be bought and consumed by the very class least able to withstand infection, the badly nourished poor. Hogs infected with hog cholera have been butchered and sold for food, tubercular fowls have been sold and eaten, and endless quantities of diseased meat have been boldly paraded in places of sale in this city.

"The fact that all meats imported from the other provinces and the U. S. A. must be properly inspected by competent government officials will result in injuring the sale of local meat unless such an abattoir is built and operated here. If the majority of the citizens knew the real state of affairs, and how diseased meat has been sold and eaten here, they would not only be horror stricken, but indignant that the city has been so remiss. In conclusion the building of an abattoir will enable proper authorities to detect infected herds, and so help to keep the milk supply clean. As infected milk has a direct connection with not only tuberculosis but glandular diseases and meningitis in children, this is a point especially to be considered. The cost of operating such an abattoir here as would be needed would be $12,000 to $20,000, and the expense of operating would be covered by the fees."

The provincial livestock commissioner, Professor W. T. Macdonald, pointed to the impossibility of satisfactory inspection without slaughter in an abattoir. "It is impossible," he said, "to inspect the dressed carcases. It is possible for butchers to prepare meat for the customer in a way that the most skilled veterinarians cannot detect if the animal was diseased in life." The professor stated that a slight defect would not be injurious. The effect of the situation was to-day that all meat to be exported was government inspected, while that used in British Columbia did not have to be. In some countries tubercular meat was allowed to be sold, provided it was labelled as such, the inference being that the consumer would take care to thoroughly cook it. All meat used here should be killed under government inspection, and none sold without the government stamp.

Inspector Lancaster placed the percentage of meat not inspected, which was sold in Victoria, at 20 per cent. The remainder was killed in public abattoirs, and there inspected. He alluded to previous attempts in 1909 and 1911 which he had made to have the council deal with the matter.

John Day supported the proposal on behalf of the Trades and Labor council, both on the ground of the health of the people and the protection of the trade at the market. He did not think the council should give too much weight to the representations on the cost of the undertaking, on account of its manifold advantages.

ESQUIMALT LOSES REEVE J. S. M'ADAM

Head of Municipality Dies at Jubilee Hospital After Lingering Illness

Shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon J. S. McAdam, who has been reeve of the municipality of Esquimalt since January last, died from the effects of a lingering illness at the Royal Jubilee hospital. He was moved there about three weeks ago, when his illness became more serious. After being fifteen days in the hospital, Mr. McAdam appeared better, and returned to his home. He then suffered a relapse, and was taken back to the hospital, where an operation was performed.

The late reeve was sixty-two years old. He was born in Manchester, Eng., and was educated and began his business career in that city. On moving to Canada he settled at Treherne, Southwest Manitoba, being engaged in farming for many years. He was also a member of the municipal council. He then moved to Winnipeg, and was land valuator in a realty firm. He came to Esquimalt in 1907, and took an active interest in the affairs of the municipality, being elected a member of the first municipal council in 1912. Later he was re-elected to the second council. At the last election he became reeve by acclamation, and until very recently was regular in attendance at the council meetings.

His loss will be very keenly felt in the Esquimalt district, for he was immensely popular, and always used his influence for the benefit of the common weal.

During his term of office as reeve, the municipality has experienced a steady improvement in conditions, and it was largely through his untiring efforts that the municipality has had installed public utilities like the sewerage system and fire apparatus. Throughout his term of office he did his utmost also to maintain the municipal highways in the best of condition, and in this was uniformly successful.

Mr. McAdam was prominent in church work, and was the representative of the Esquimalt Methodist church at the Methodist conference held recently at New Westminster.

He is survived by a widow and one sister, Mrs. Rutledge, of New Westminster.

WARD TWO LIBERALS PREPARE FOR ELECTION

Candidates Address Meeting at Liberal Rooms; Increase in Strength

A committee meeting of Ward II. Liberals was held at the Liberal rooms last night and was well attended. Three of the candidates for the city, Messrs. Hart, Hall and Bell, were present, and made short speeches, following which ward committees for organizing and canvassing the ward discussed their plans for continuing the activity that has been noted in the ward for several months past. All reports were that the Liberal roster in Ward II. has been and is still growing, and that Ward II. workers will not be beaten by any other ward in the Victoria district in the matter of adding to the Liberal voting strength.

H. C. Hall was the first speaker, and he reminded the committeemen that there was an election on the horizon, and that it would be necessary to be well prepared. The voter's list as it now stood, he said, had been considerably altered in reality, for there were many whose names were on the list who were not now in Victoria. He advised the workers to be ready with every name in the ward, and to know where every man was, and how he stood, so that the Liberal side would not be caught napping at the next court of revision, which will be held in November. Mr. Hall said there were indications that there would be an election soon, possibly before November, and this, if correct, was all the more reason for progressive work now.

George Bell, another candidate, who has recently returned from a trip into the interior, informed the meeting that wherever he had been there had been enthusiasm displayed on behalf of the Liberal party. The Liberals, he declared, were gaining strength and would provide a sensational turnover when polling day arrived. That day would be, he said, when it best suited the Conservative party, and for that reason it would be necessary for the Liberals to keep at work and not be caught resting on their oars. He supported all that Mr. Hall had said, and spoke of the change in the affairs of the province since the commencement of the McBride administration. Ten years ago, he said, the provincial income was $2,600,000 and the expenditure was $2,800,000. Now in income was $10,500,000, but the expenditure had increased greatly, being about $15,000,000 annually. In the early years the province was growing, and there was an opposition in the parliament which kept the government in hand. To-day, without an opposition, they had a free hand, which had proved a decidedly bad thing for the province. It was time there was an opposition elected, and he thought the indications through the province showed sufficient strength for a turnover.

Mr. Bell concluded by urging all to remember that it was the duty of all Liberals to keep working, and so be ready when the time for election arrived.

John Hart spoke briefly on organization, and of the increasing support that he found in Victoria. He had learned, he said, that there are Conservatives deserting their party every day. Prospects were never better for an election than now, and he felt sure that when the time came the committee would have everything lined up, and would know just how the Liberal voters were placed and the strength of the party in Ward II.

Mr. Dinsdale, who occupied the chair, expressed some practical views on organization, and the formation of committees for the canvassing of the ward.

FINISH IN TWO MONTHS.

Dredging Will Be Ended in Rock Bay Then: Dundas street Assessment.

At the meeting of the civic streets committee yesterday it was reported that the dredging of the Rock Bay, and the approach chanel to the Newcastle Lumber mills will be finished in September, and also that a channel will be dredged to the approach of the Garbally road yards.

It was decided to thank the member for the city, and the acting district engineer, A. F. Mitchell, for their interest in the matter.

A long discussion took place with regard to Dundas street, the comptroller having called the attention of the engineer's department to the necessity of closing up the by-law, as the interest amounts to $2,000 per annum.

A full report, suggesting three alternative schemes, was made on the matter last December, but since that time no action has been taken.

Another committee, composed of Aldermen Porter, McNeill and McCandless, was appointed to take the subject up with the city engineer.

TAX RATE WILL BE EIGHTEEN MILLS NET

Rate Will Be Struck on Monday; Twenty Per Cent Cut for Property Owners

The tax rate by-law will be introduced by Alderman McNeill to the attention of the city council on Monday. On account of the litigation arising from the assessments confirmed by the court of revision in June, the introduction of the by-law has been delayed till now.

Last year when there was no compilation, the rate was struck much earlier in the year. The net change in the total from disputed assessments on which the rate will be struck, approximately $12,000, will not be sufficient to make any difference in the fixing of the rate. It is, however, to establish the principle of a basis for rating which has induced the city council to take the appeal to the higher courts.

The assessment will be about 18 mills net on the dollar, which compares favorably with last year. Allowing for the reduction in the assessment of $9,000,000 on land as compared with 1914, and for the reduced mill rate, the net saving to the ratepayers will be 19 4-5 per cent. on general taxes.

The estimates as approved in February provided for an expenditure of $1,950,000. The miscellaneous revenue is approximately $500,000, leaving $1,450,000 to be met by land tax. Then taking the present pruning of the estimates by about $110,000 to $120,000, and having added the $40,000 supplementary estimates, the aggregate cut will enable the striking of the rate at 18 mills net.

This provides not only for the expenditure of 1915, but for the overdraft of $182,000 from 1914, which was repaid from the annual loan from the bank, and which, of course, has to be supplied from the proceeds of the taxes. It is stated that the estimates may be cut by another quarter of a mill, before the figures quoted are finally approved. The date of rebate on general taxes will be set either for November 15 or November 30.

It is the intention of Alderman McNeill to make a formal statement to the city council on Monday, in moving for leave to introduce the by-law, on the assessment, expenditure, and the tax rates which have prevailed in the last four years.

There is a long list of applications from realty owners and agents with regard to the sitting of another board of equalization on the assessment roll. There is, however, no statutory power to reopen the matter.

ESQUIMALT SHOWS GREAT PROGRESS

Industrial Development of Township is Notable Feature To-day

The stability of the Esquimalt district is shown in the manner in which the taxes were paid by the last day of rebate. The township, after almost three years of corporate life, is able to stand the present financial conditions better than many other municipalities in the province.

It is true that the excessive activity with regard to the sewer works, the main object for which the district was incorporated, has been lessened, but the work in hand on Lampson street shows that once they have put hand to the plough, the council will not turn back. Meanwhile the city's share of the sewer, the lower portion of which passes through the district, is making good progress, and the percentage share of the township on progress payments to the city has been maintained. It is regrettable that the late reeve, who was so closely identified with the inception of the scheme, should not have lived to see it finished, but the improved conditions in the municipality will be a lasting memorial.

The new municipal hall is still to be built, and when the time is ripe the splendid site certainly demands a handsome building, such as that already designed.

Owing to the presence of the naval village, and the Work Point barracks at either end of the municipality, the district has been visited recently by many military and naval people who all admire its location. The district was certainly meant by nature for a fortification guarding the city and its hinterland. Not only as a fortress, but as a home suburb its future is assured. The plans of the Hudson's Bay company, whose enterprises have been so closely linked up with local history, have assured a great area for closer residential settlement in one of the most charming portions of the municipality.

Perhaps one of the most noticeable features of the development has been the increased attractiveness for industries of the section of the municipality having track facilities. The line of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo railway, which runs through the district, is now almost lined with industries, one of the most important being that of the B. C. Pottery Company, Limited, the buildings of which present a revivified appearance since the fire of September 21, 1913. Close by is the Sweeney Cooperage Co., Ltd., the Canada Mosaic Tile company, and the tank reservoirs of the Imperial Oil company.

The church and school accommodation of the district has greatly improved of late. The Lampson street school is, as rebuilt, one of the finest graded schools in this district, and is a credit to the trustees. A half share in the beauties of the Gorge, with one of its parks within the municipal limits, assures a playground to the municipality for all time. The value of that asset has been appreciated by the council.

Commencement of work on the new drydock would prove a welcome addition to the available opportunities to secure employment, for with it would come the industrial possibilities of which Yarrows, Ltd., were assured when they determined to locate a branch plant here. This development would make the harbor what the early pioneers foresaw with the eyes of faith. The feature of Esquimalt is rich with promise, when more happier times come, and the storm of war no longer disturbs the surface of the world.

PRESENTATION TO THE BISHOP-ELECT

Committee Offers Opportunity to Archdeacon's Friends to Testify Admiration

A committee has been formed to make a presentation to Archdeacon Scriven, bishop-elect of British Columbia, toward the necessary expenses of his consecration and the other unexpected difficulties he may have to meet consequent upon his unanimous election to the island bishopric.

It is felt that the present occasion is an almost unique opportunity for his numberless friends to testify their admiration of one whose character and labors, only equalled by his modesty, have made him for the past quarter of a century the western ideal of "a Christian gentleman."

As the consecration will take place on August 24 all subscriptions, no matter how small, should be forwarded at once to the honorary treasurer, R. W. Perry, Permanent Loan Co., Central Building, Victoria.

BLUE CROSS GARDEN FETE

Generous Assistance Being Given by Sympathetic Citizens to Help Dumb Friends in Campaign.

The Blue Cross society have found on all sides a keen desire on the part of the public to help the cause for which they are holding the garden party on Tuesday afternoon at "Rappahannock," Rockland avenue, kindly lent for the occasion by Colonel and Mrs. Coy. The merchants of the city have been most generous in assisting, and those who are helping in the entertainment have volunteered their services willingly. All that is needed, consequently, to make for the success of the undertaking is a good crowd, and fair weather. Tickets may be secured at the gate, but those holding tickets already must show them before entering.

All manner of things have been arranged for the diversion of the guests. Mrs. Harry Briggs has charge of a musical programme which will include some of the leading talent of the city, vocal and instrumental. The Gordon Highlanders' band, by courtesy of Major Forsythe, will be present, and will furnish bagpipe selections during the afternoon. There will be a palmist and two fortune tellers who will read character and forecast the future. Ice cream will be sold on the grounds, and afternoon tea will be served without charge to all visitors. A variety stall, containing many attractive articles for sale, will be in charge of a few ladies.

One of the features of the occasion will be the address to be given by Colonel Lorne Ross on the subject of the part played by horses in the present campaign, the object of the Blue Cross society being to raise funds to help these dumb soldiers at the front.

Mistress—"The only fault I find with you, Jane, is your washing bill. Why, last week you had six blouses; my daughter only had two!" Jane—"That may be, mum; but Miss Flo's engaged to a bank clerk, while my young man's a sweep. It makes a difference, mum!"
